U. S. TO CONDUCT FURTHER INQUIRY IN JENKINS CASE

Embassy Ordered to Investigate Mexico's Charge That Consular Agent Made Conflicting Statements.

GOVERNMENT NOT TO RECEDE FROM STAND

Officials Say Administration
Is Prepared for 'Next Step,' Which May Take Form of an Ultimatum.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Further investigation of the facts will be made before the American Government replies to the Mexican note
refusing to comply with the demand for the immediate release of William O. Jenkins, American consular agent, at Puebla.

The Mexican reply to the American demand raises a new issue that Jenkins made contradictory statements to the trial judge, and this officials said, must be investigated.
Instructions will go forward to the embassy at Mexico City today to investigate this charge and also obtain copies of the indictment and charges against the consular agent.
However, the Government has no intention of receding from its position, administration officials declared. The Government, they said, is prepared for "the next step,"
which may take the form of an ultimatum to the Mexican Government.
Administration officials indicated that the negotiations with Mexico
would not be prolonged if unsatisfactory; that the American Government had decided upon a course of action and was prepared to carry it out should that become necessary.

Studying Mexican Situation.
Legal officers of the State Department are studying article 104, paragraph six, of the new Mexican Constitution, which provides that "the Federal tribunals shall have jurisdiction over all cases concerning diplomatic agents and consular officers."

The Mexican Government in its reply to the American note demanding Jenkins' release said his case
was in the State courts at Puebla
and that consequently the Federal Government could not intervene.
Since Jenkins is a consular agent of the United States, officials are inclined to the opinion that under the Mexican Constitution the State courts have no jurisdiction in his case.

While officials have not yet per-sively considered the question of Jenkins' release on bail, they said
there might be advantages technically in his refusing to accept bail.
Mexico's reply, an argumentative diplomatic refusal of the American demand, was delivered here yesterday, and made public today. It agrees with the copy given out by Mexican Consul-General at El Paso.

The Mexican reply, which, according to its text, was prepared at the direction of President Carranza, argues in the main that the Mexican Government cannot release the prisoner while his case is under adjudication in the civil courts of one of its states, and contends that the American Government's demands for the Consul-General's release had no foundation or precedent in international law. Some new angles of the Mexican viewpoint in the Jenkins case, hitherto unpublished in the United States, are revealed by the tendency of the Mexican argument is to separate the Jenkins case into two phases: First, the situation in which the Consul General was kidnapped by bandits and held for ransom, and his subsequent arrest and imprisonment by the civil authorities of Puebla on a charge of having
"connived" with the bandits.

Deals With Arrest Phase.
The note at hand deals with the latter phase exclusively. It points out that Jenkins was first held under what is known to the Mexican penal code as "preventive imprisonment."
This provision covers a situation in which a person is suspected of committing a crime and is held under a provision covering "formal" imprisonment, which under the Mexican penal code applies when a magistrate believes there is sufficient evidence to establish that a crime has been committed.
The allegation against Jenkins is that he signed conflicting statements
regarding his kidnapping and therefore was "guilty of falsifying judicial declarations."

The note says Jenkins has opportunity to be released on bail in the sum of 1000 pesos, the equivalent to $400 in American money if reckoned at the current rate. The Mexican bank notes, and that Mexico has never allowed the United States to waive local law in their cases the note remarks that "the Mexican Government cannot concede to American

EXPLOSION BREAKS WINDOWS IN 25 HOMES AND STORES

Steam Generating Boiler in Bakery at 3155 Cherokee Street Blown Through Wall.

An explosion of a steam generating boiler in the bakery of William Selbt, 3155 Cherokee street, at 3 o'clock this morning, damaged the building about $2000 and broke windows in 25 homes and dwellings
in the neighborhood.

William Robbing, 52 years old, 2311 Mallinckrodt street, an employe of Selbt, was cut on the face and head by flying debris. The police reported that at least two persons were thrown from bed by the concussion.

The explosion was heard several blocks away, but the police were unable to trace the source until Otto Ittel, 2209 Cherokee street, telephoned that he had been jolted from bed and wanted to know the cause of the explosion. This has not been ascertained.

The explosion occurred about five minutes after Robbing had ignited
a fire beneath the boiler. The boiler was protected through an 18-inch wall into the back yard.

MEXICO CITY FIGHT RUMORED, WITH CARRANZA IN FLIGHT
San Antonio Hears of Clash at Capital Between Obregon and Government Factions.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 28.— Reports were received here today from the border to the effect that fighting had broken out in Mexico City between the Obregon and Carranza factions. Carranza is reported to have fled to Queretaro.
Gen. Pablo Gonzalez is reported to be leading the Carranza troops.
Obregon, formerly Minister of War
in the Carranza Cabinet, resigned recently after announcing himself a candidate for the presidency, to be voted upon next July. Carranza has stated he would not again seek election. Another potential presidential candidate is Gen. Gonzalez.

The report of the fighting came from persons on the border in communication with the Mexican capital and there was good reason to believe the information was authentic. Carranza's resignation was reported to have been accepted by the Mexican City said that Obregon reached there Tuesday night and that there was a great demonstration in his honor.

Some newspapers charged that his resignation was a ruse to enable Carranza to escape. Carranza's resignation officials so that Obregon could not reach there in time for the celebration. Obregon partisans, it was said, made up a special train and sent him to the border, getting him into Mexico City in time. Carranza newspapers were bitter in their comments and the capital was said to have been seething with excitement since Tuesday.

FOUR MEN HERE CHARGED WITH BEING UNDESIRABLES

Federal warrants charging four men held here with being undesirable residents of the United States were made public today. They will have hearings before an immigration commissioner. If the evidence justifies it he will recommend to the Secretary of Labor that they be deported.

The accused are Joseph Novelli, 1420 Wash street; Milos Vojnovic, 1846A South Fourteenth street;
Friedrich W. Friedman of Chicago and Abe Schneider, 4417 Page boule-

GARFIELD PLAN FAILS TO SATISFY EVEN THE CABINET

Fuel Administrator Insisted on His Method of Arriving at Mine Facts as Against Secretary Wilson's.

ANALYSIS OF THE FACTS IN SITUATION

Garfield Threatened to Resign and View Was Accepted Rather Than Put Question to Sick President.

By DAVID LAWRENCE,
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1919.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Nobody satisfied, neither miners nor operators, neither the Cabinet representing the Government, nor the public; coal miners getting ready to fight until started into submission, operators worried over their inability to satisfy the world-wide demand for coal; Government agencies, such as the War Department and the Department of Justice getting ready to protect those miners who do desire to work; all this is only a part of one of the most tragic situations in the history of the American Government.

President Wilson lies ill at the White House. His Cabinet is split.
Good feeling prevails, but honest differences of opinion have produced only inaction, not a settlement of the biggest industrial controversy that ever faced the Cabinet.

The main difference is between Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson and the Fuel Administrator, Dr.
Harry A. Garfield. Each respects and credits the other's figures and statistics, but each doubts the other's method of computation on a basis of fairness. Dr. Garfield insists that the coal industry should pay any more for coal. Secretary Wilson admits that such a thing would be excellent in theory, but that the country is faced not with a theory,
but with a condition.

The cost of living has risen. Both sides, operators, miners, Dr. Garfield, Secretary Wilson, everybody, admits that. But Dr. Garfield has insisted that the public and the country should bear the cost of the increased wages, so that both miners and operators would have the incentive to go back to work.

Government Authority.
On top of it all is a serious difference of opinion as to authority inside the Government itself. Here are the facts and the public can draw its own conclusions as to relative responsibility.

Miners and operators came to Washington at the request of the Government. Secretary Wilson is charged by law with the task of mediation. He conferred with both sides, and examined statistics and figures on costs and wages. He conceived his function to be the making of a wage scale satisfactory to operators and miners.

The cost of living had increased 78.8 per cent since 1913. But since that time there had been an increase in wages. So he subtracted the increase in wages which had been given, and it still left 31 per cent as the necessary increase in wages to meet the high cost of living.

Along came the operators to point out that Mr. Wilson based his figures on the men engaged in picked mining, which they claimed produced only 40 per cent or thereabouts of the annual production of coal, while whereas machine mining produces the remainder.

But Secretary Wilson declares that the amount of money that must be paid to induce the men engaged in 40 per cent production must be enough to enable them to meet the cost of living or hundreds of thousands of men will be dissatisfied, and the trouble in the coal fields is far from settled.

It must not be forgotten that the miners themselves wanted a 40 per cent increase in wages, but Secretary Wilson pared that down to 31 per cent and they stood willing to abandon other demands, and agree to a settlement.

The operators didn't say flatly that they would agree, but they intimated that, if they didn't have to absorb the entire wage increase but could charge the public a little more for coal, it would protect them against decreasing prices, and other high costs of materials. Secretary Wilson assumed that the Fuel Administrator, Dr. Garfield, charged by the Legislator, and the authority of the President, to fix the price of coal,
would increase that price just enough to furnish the incentive to

BLIZZARD CAUSES SUFFERING ON THE WESTERN PLAINS

Snow Falls From Northern Missouri and Kansas to the Sierra Nevada Range.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—A blanket of snow, ranging from a fraction of an inch to two feet deep, today covered most of the country west of the Mississippi River, and extended as far east as Toledo, O., with low temperatures prevailing throughout the area. South of the snow belt heavy rains fell, and floods swept the low lands bordering the Salt and Agua Fria Rivers in Arizona, with possible loss of life.

Suffering in many places in the Centr 1 and Southwest is in prospect because of the extreme cold and the almost fuelless condition resulting from the coal strike. Cattle on the Western ranges also are reported endangered.

Moderation today was forecast
only for the Panhandle region of Texas.

Two to four inches of snow was reported from Northern Missouri
and Kansas to the Sierra Nevada Mountains, with maximum falls of two feet in Northern Arizona and 12 inches in Western Kansas. In some places, however, the snow drifted to depths of six feet. In the Western Plains States trains were delayed, and wire communication was crippled.

Over the interior districts temperatures were from 10 to 38 degrees
below the seasonal average.
Extremely low temperatures and heavy snowfalls were reported from all parts of the territory between the Missouri River and the eastern boundary of California today.

A gale varying from 34 miles an hour on Mount Tamalpais to 22 miles at San Diego raged along the California coast yesterday. Temperatures as low as 26 degrees above zero were recorded on the mountain tops.

The gale damaged shipping in San Francisco Bay. In Central California
the wind uprooted trees and caused damage to the orange crop.
Snow fell in Los Angeles and the mountains back of Pasadena were covered with snow. Two inches of snow was reported at the army airfield near Riverside.

RESTRICTIONS ON DELIVERY OF COAL TO THEATERS CONSIDERED

Chairman of Regional Committee
Refuses to Say Whether Supply

Restrictions on the delivery of coal to theaters were considered at a meeting today of the Regional Fuel Committee, which met to discuss additional proposed coal conserving measures. P. H. Greenlaw, chairman of the committee, who made this announcement at an intermission, refused to say whether this meant that the supply of coal to the theaters will be stopped, or to explain what he meant by "restrictions."

LADY ASTOR WINS SEAT IN COMMONS BY 1064 MAJORITY

American-Born Viscountess
Gets 14,495 Votes to 9292

Liberal.

FIRST WOMAN TO SIT IN PARLIAMENT

One of Famous Langhorne

Six Children.

By the Associated Press.
PLYMOUTH, Nov. 28.—Lady Astor, American-born wife of Viscount Astor, was elected to Parliament
from the Sutton division of Plymouth in the balloting of Nov. 15. The result was announced after a count of the ballots here this afternoon.

The vote stood: Lady Astor, Unionist, 14,495; W. T. Gay, Labor, 9292;
Isaac Foote, Liberal, 4139.

The ceremony attending the counting of the ballots began in the historic Plymouth Guild Hall at 9:30 o'clock.

Fully 80 per cent of the absent voter was estimated by a Liberal counter to have been cast for Lady Astor. The delay in announcing the result was due to the collecting of these votes. The vote of this class was largely that of soldiers and sailors. Its positive total was 4400 and it was estimated that 50 per cent of it was actually polled.

Gay, the Labor candidate, conceded his defeat before the announcement of the result of Lady Astor's election was greeted with cheers by thousands of people in front of the Guild hall.

Lady Astor, garbed in her black morning which she wore throughout the campaign, went to the Guild Hall while the counting was in progress, accompanied by Viscount Astor and Lady Cyprien, a daughter, a daughter of Earl Curzon. She said she was deeply grateful to the electors
for their return.

Gay characterized the result as
"a magnificent" in view of the fact that his vote had been increased by more than 4000 over the last election.
Foote remarked that the tide was against him, adding that Lady Astor's election was due to her remarkable and deserved personal popularity.

SERGT. YORK NOT EAGER, BUT READY FOR ANOTHER WAR

Tennessean Thinks U. S.
Will Not Fight Soon Again,
but Would Go With National Guard.

HERE TO MAKE TWO ADDRESSES

Mountaineer on Speaking Tour in Interest of Foundation to Maintain Schools
in Home State.

Sergt. Alvin C. York of Pall Mall, Tenn., foremost hero of the world war, is in St. Louis today. He spoke before the Tennessee Society at the Missouri Athletic Association at luncheon, and will lecture at the Odeon tonight.

Mrs. Grace York, his bride of a few months, was suffering this morning from a bad cold, and because of her illness, Sergt. York will go home from here and will resume his speaking tour later in New England and the Atlantic Coast states.
He is speaking in behalf of the foundation, which bears his name, for the building and maintenance of an industrial school or schools in the Tennessee mountains.

Met at Station.
Sergt. and Mrs. York were met at Union Station upon their arrival from Chicago at 7:40 a. m. by representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, the Tennessee Society, and the Tennessee State Society. They went to Hotel Statler, with Dr. George W. Dyer and Lipscomb Davis, who are in charge of the financial affairs of the York Foundation.

Mrs. York lay curled beneath a blanket while her husband, sitting on the bed, talked to reporters in their room this morning. In that posture, she seemed even smaller,
in comparison with her big husband,
than in her photographs. He is in called "the big one" by his neighbors in before-the-war days, and his 204 pounds are solid brawn, while his fighting qualities are emphasized
by his hair and mustache.

York's manner of speech is straightforward, and his answers to questions are direct, except for a qualifying "I reckon" now and then.

Member of National Guard.
He was asked whether, in the event of hostilities between the United States and any other country
in the near future, he would return to the army service. He was discharged from the 328th Infantry, Eighty-second Division, after his return from France.

"I don't think there's likely to be any more war for awhile," he said,
and I reckon we've got all the soldiers we need. But if the National Guard is called out, why, I'm in the Tennessee National Guard now."

He was made a Captain in the guard, he explained, and was then named as a Colonel on the Government staff, but he prefers to be known as a Sergeant.

"I'm going to be a farmer," he said, in answer to inquiries as to his permanent plans for the future. "Of course, I am going to be interested in the work of educating the mountain people, because I am one of them myself. My idea is that they should be educated right there at home, not educated to go away from home, but educated to stay there."

Will Return to Farm.
"My brother is working for me
now, on the 400-acre place that was given me by the Rotarians in Pen-tress County, my home county. That is good river bottom land, but it needs buildings and a lot of work,
and it will keep me busy for some time, after I get back to farm work."

"We have raised about $40,000 for the foundation, and a number of wealthy men have promised us gifts
which will amount to $50,000 more,
so that we feel we have made a good start."

Sergt. York speaks in his public addresses of his war experiences, particularly the exploit of Oct. 8, 1918, for which he received the Congressional Medal of Honor and 12
other American and allied decorations.
He appears on the platform in service uniform, with wears six of his medals. He was in a dark civilian suit this morning, and his only decoration
was the badge of the Rotary Club.
Fought German Battalion.

As is known, the feat which was the basis for the award of the medals, was his fight with a German machine gun battalion, in which he was officially credited with having put out of action an entire German machine gun battalion in the Argonne, having killed more than 20 of the enemy and captured 132, including four officers. Marshal Foch declared this the greatest individual achievement recorded during the war.

miners put forward a counter proposal, that Secretary Wilson's suggestion for a 3.16 per cent wage increase be granted, and this the operators refused.

The third time the operators rejected their proposal for arbitration, and this time the miners voted down. Unanimously an adjournment was voted.

Lewis on Situation.

"The operators are pretending to accept Dr. Garfield's proposal," Lewis said, manifesting scorn and indignation as he called the newspaper men around him in the littered and noisy hall that was the scene of the all-day gathering, "but as they do it they state they are unable to operate many of their mines under it. It would be foolish for us to attempt to make an agreement unless the miners are to be given work. Our position is unchanged. We hold the United States Government cannot break its word. The pledge of Secretary Wilson to grant us a 3.16 per cent increase must be redeemed. In my judgment, Dr. Garfield and the Cabinet have committed the most colossal blunder in the history of our nation. They are blindly following an academic theory without regard to justice to the mine workers or effects on the people of the United States."

"Responsibility for the crisis now confronting the nation must be with those statesmen using the powers of Government to oppress and deny justice to a great element of its citizenry suffering in the history of our nation. They are blindly following an academic theory without regard to justice to the mine workers or effects on the people of the United States."

Stand of Operators.

"The operators' main open letter to Dr. Garfield said that in view of the serious situation, the Wage Scale Committee for the central field would accept his suggested basis of settlement, 'preserving present differentials.'"

"At the same time, we wish to call your attention to the fact that the acceptance of this increase in wages without any increase in selling prices of bituminous coal entirely eliminated the profits of a large number of miners," it continued. "Such a large number, in fact, we fear the production of coal will be seriously affected. We understand that operating statistics for 1919 are not now in your possession and we shall rely upon the Government when such statistics are properly assembled and presented, to make such adjustments in selling prices as will permit these mines to make such a profit as is able to give them the right to operate under the Lever law."

Kansas Calls for Volunteers—Gardner.

Kansas is enrolling volunteers to dig coal, and Gov. H. J. Allen's appeal for men is reported being readily answered. Students of Kansas University are said to be preparing to dig in production.

Gov. Gardner of Missouri, as chairman of a committee named at a recent conference of Governors to investigate profiteering, is considering calling a conference of Governors of coal producing States to discuss plans for reopening the mines, unless the Government takes prompt steps to do so.

"Non-essential" Indianapolis manufacturing plants are closed today and will close tomorrow to conserve fuel. Reduction of trolley service throughout the State is predicted.

CHAIRMAN OF ENGINEERS DISCUSS WAGE DEMANDS

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 28.—The general chairman of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, about 180 in number, met in separate session here today and discussed the demand for a wage increase of 40 to 45 per cent.

The demands were presented to the Railroad Administration in September, but no reply has been received. The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, who made similar demands, were advised that the question was up to President Wilson.

The conference of general chairmen of the four brotherhoods called to consider Director-General Hines' offer of time and one-half for slow freight, based on a speed of less than 12 1/2 miles an hour, provided all arbitrators and special allowances now in working agreements are abolished, adjourned late yesterday without accepting or rejecting his proposition. Subcommittees headed by the chiefs of the four organizations and clothed with authority to act were authorized to go to Washington to determine what the other means.

GERMANY TO REFUSE DEMAND FOR RECOMPENSE FOR FLEET

BRUSSELS, Nov. 28.—It is stated in authoritative quarters that Germany will not comply with the demand of the Entente for 400,000 tons of docks, dredges and tugs as an offset to the German warships sunk at Scapa Flow.

It was indicated that Germany would stand pat on her proposition to refer the dispute to The Hague Tribunal. It is asserted that Germany should not be held responsible for the acts of the marine forces at Scapa Flow.

SAYS NORTH BRIDGE APPROACH WOULD NOT END ARBITRARY

Head of Public Service Board Favors Building Approach on This Side Under Bond Plan.

"At a meeting before the Ways and Means Committee of the Board of Aldermen Wednesday afternoon, President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service told the committee that in his opinion the proposed northern approach to the Free Bridge on the east side of the river, as advocated by Frank H. Gerhart, would not abolish the bridge arbitrage, as the railroads would have to elevate their tracks at great expense to get on the approach."

Kinsey said that adequate approaches on both sides of the river must be built ultimately, but that at present it would be best to follow the proposed bond issue plan of extending $1,750,000 for the building of an approach on this side of the river as part of the development of a municipally-owned terminal system to compete with the Terminal. The proposed River des Peres Railroad bridge would be part of this system.

Public Utilities Director Hooke said the extending of the harbor line near Chouteau avenue at a cost of $175,000, and the use of land owned by the city near the York house and along the River des Peres would afford ample municipal terminal space to be used by the city if the proposed southern approach on this side of the river should be built.

Martin Shaughnessy of 1 Washington terrace advocated the use of part of the bond issue money to increase the width of Jefferson avenue, north of Market street, from 60 feet to 110 feet. Such improvement, he said, should be made at the expense of all the people and not by the iniquitous special tax system.

At the city hospital it was said his condition is serious. His helper, John Walker, 59 years old, 2021 Park avenue, suffered a lacerated forehead. POSTOFFICE PROPOSES AIR MAIL FOR ST. LOUIS

Bill Provides Appropriation for Service Between Pittsburgh and Kansas City.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—A daily airplane mail service between Pittsburgh and Kansas City, with stops at Indianapolis and St. Louis, will be established, if Congress grants an appropriation of $476,000 for that purpose to be recommended by the air mail division of the Postoffice Department.

The estimate is one item of a $3,000,000 total which the department will seek to have Congress at the December session set aside for the development of air-mail routes.

The complete plans for the proposed Pittsburgh-Kansas City service have been drawn up by experts of the department, working under Otto Praeger, Second Assistant Postmaster-General. Pittsburgh was chosen as the eastern terminus in order to permit Kansas City to be reached in one normal day's flying. The route covers 810 miles, and the flying time is estimated at 11 hours. If the service is installed, air mail will leave Kansas City at 5 a. m., St. Louis at 8 a. m., Pittsburgh at 11 a. m., and P. M. Mail for New York will be placed on night trains out of Pittsburgh.

Air mail for the West will be taken on fast night trains to Pittsburgh, there to be transferred to a plane departing at 5 a. m., reaching St. Louis at 1 p. m. and Kansas City at 4 p. m. Four twin-motor De Havilland planes have been ordered by the department to be used in the new service. If it is authorized by Congress, it is not the planes will be employed on air routes already established. The plane calls for one plane a day to start from each terminus, with another plane to be added if the mail becomes heavy.

Praeger said today that St. Louis already offered a landing field in Forest Park and that it behooved Pittsburgh and Kansas City to make a similar offer.

BELLEVEUE GAVE GERMAN FUND MORE THAN IN RED CROSS DRIVE

Relief Contributions in Excess of $2000 While Victory Campaign Gifts Were $1903.

Bellevue contributed more to German relief than to the Victory drive of the Red Cross, according to an announcement made today by L. Osterhaus, chairman of the Bellevue Committee for German Relief. Osterhaus says that the contributions are in excess of $2000. In the recent Red Cross drive only 1903 was collected.

George E. Hilgard Post, American Legion, with a membership of 500, on Oct. 21, condemned as "un-American and unpatriotic" the action of the German Relief Committee in sending out letters written in the German language asking for aid for the people of Germany.

TWO BEATEN BY HIGHWAYMEN

Man Knocked Down and Nephew Is Robbed After Reading.

John Higgins and his uncle, James, of Gillespie, Ill., were beaten by four highwaymen who stopped them near Fourteenth street and Franklin avenue, at 2:30 p. m. today. The Higginses were stopped by four men who were armed with revolvers. The Higginses were beaten and robbed of $30. The uncle lost nothing. Both were treated at the dispensary for scalp wounds.

Other holdups were reported by Paul Mecca, 1804 North Jefferson avenue, assaulted near his home; Benjamin Heron, 1547 Tamm avenue, robbed of $11.67 and his watch at Spring and Chouteau avenues; Harry Meyers, Hotel Statler, robbed of $11 at Grand and Washington avenues; and James F. Ralston, Muncie, Ind., robbed of $26 near Union Station.

production and a resumption of work. That was the beginning of a good feeling. A settlement seemed in sight. Happiness prevailed as it appeared that the big coal strike would be settled.

But of a sudden, Dr. Garfield entered the controversy, with a line of argument totally new to both operators and miners. He declared that he wouldn't increase the selling price of coal, and moreover, that he couldn't strike his powers as sufficient to set wages, because it was a factor in the cost of production.

The Cabinet differed with him. Lengthy debate ensued. Finally Dr. Garfield politely told the Cabinet they could accept his plan or submit his resignation to President Wilson. The Cabinet hesitated to take such an intricate controversy to the President in his present state of health. All finally agreed that Dr. Garfield did have the power to fix the selling price of coal, and that the Cabinet was powerless.

Some members of the Cabinet protested that Dr. Garfield didn't have the power to enter into contract of production or the subject of wages, any more than he could tell the operators how much to pay for steel rails or other items in their cost list. The Mexican note, as the conclusion of a long legal argument expresses its hope that the State Department will withhold its judgment on the Jenkins case until the civil courts in Puebla have passed on it.

U. S. Warned Carranza.

In the note to Mexico the State Department not only demanded the immediate release of Jenkins, but warned Carranza that further molestation of the consular agent would bring the relations between the two countries to a precarious point.

The second note, which was sent after another Jenkins' arrest and imprisonment by local Carranza authorities, "Incensed" this Government as Secretary Lansing's note expressed it.

Whether the Government will regard the Jenkins case as a climax to the long list of unsettled questions with Mexico is not being indicated in any official way. Technically, a consular agent has no diplomatic status and immunities, and, unlike a diplomatic agent, is not beyond local laws.

Diplomats are of the opinion that in framing its further action the Government here will have to determine whether the civil prosecution of Jenkins is a civil prosecution in good faith, in which the consular agent is receiving a speedy and fair trial, with all preservation of his rights, or whether he is being "molested" by the Carranza Government, while legal and technical arguments are being advanced to justify the procedure.

Text of American Note Demanding Release of Jenkins.

By EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 28.—Following is a translation of the Spanish version of the note sent to Mexico by the American State Department in the Jenkins case:

Nov. 20, 1919.

To His Excellency, Subsecretary of Foreign Affairs, Mexico City.

"Sir: Referring to previous communications in the case of the consular agent of the United States at Puebla, William O. Jenkins, I have the honor of informing you that I have received telegraphic instructions to notify the Secretary of Foreign Affairs of Mexico that in connection with the losses and injuries already suffered by Mr. Jenkins as the result of his being kidnapped, occasioned by the inability of the Mexican Government to give due protection and his first arrest by Mexican authorities, the Government of the United States of America is surprised and exasperated to learn that Mr. Jenkins again has been arrested. His new arrest seems to my Government, according to the evidence before it, entirely unjustified and an arbitrary exercise of public authority."

"The Government orders me to add that the persistent persecution and subsequent harrasing of Mr. Jenkins occasioned by the inability of the Mexican Government to give due protection to the relations between the two countries, for which the Mexican Government will be solely responsible."

"Therefore, I am ordered to demand the immediate liberation of Mr. Jenkins."

"Accept, sir, etc."

"GEORGE L. SUMMERLIN."

The text of the American note, as well as the reply made by the Mexican Government, was received from Mexico City by the Consulate-General here, with instructions to give both documents publicity.

BORAH CALLS FOR LAW TO CHECK PROFITTEERING

Senator Outlines Program for Congress, Including Declaration War Is at End.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Calling on Congress to turn its attention to the immediate needs of the American people, Senator Borah, Republican, of Idaho, one of the "irreconcilables" in the fight against the league of nations, outlined in a formal statement a program for the coming session.

Passage of the resolution to declare peace, legislation to "bring order out of chaos in our transportation system," laws to enforce governmental economy and check extravagance, which he characterized as "incredible," a check on profiteering, return of American troops from Russia and a restoration of the peace time powers of the Government in distinction from the war powers being maintained were the principal measures Senator Borah advocated.

A declaration of peace, Senator Borah declared, was "desirable more for psychological reasons than anything else," adding that "the advocates of the league continue to harp upon the proposition that we technically are at war in order to disturb business and keep it restless and unsettled."

Referring to former Secretary McAdoo's recent statement regarding profits of coal operators, Senator Borah declared the profits were permitted under the orders of the administration of which McAdoo was a member, and that profiteering "is just as rampant now as it was during the war in certain lines."

McAdoo Says Many Coal Operators Must Be "On Velvet."
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Profits several times in excess of the entire capital invested came back to many coal operators in 1917, William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, declares in a further statement relative to the coal controversy. He asserted those operators "must now be on velvet." The statement follows:

"The coal operators assert that I gave out confidential information when I stated that profits of the mine owners in 1917 ranged from 15 to 2000 per cent on capital stock before deduction of taxes. This was not confidential information. The Treasury Department may publish statistical matter of this character at any time. In fact, information concerning this very subject was furnished by me to the United States Senate in response to a resolution introduced by Senator Borah concerning profiteering, and was published July 5, 1918. (See Senate document 259, Sixty-fifth Congress, second session.)

"In this report the returns of several hundred coal companies showed profits ranging from 15 to 800 per cent of their invested capital in 1917. The range of profits was higher on capital stock. In short, many coal operators got back their entire invested capital several times out of their profits in 1917, as shown by the reports, and must now be on velvet."

TWO MINERS FAR WRONG IN GUESSING WEIGHT OF COAL

High School Girl, University Student and a Clerk Win Contest of American Mining Congress.

Where two miners were far wrong in estimating the weight of a lump of coal exhibited at the American Mining Congress Exposition recently, a high school girl, a university student and a clerk each guessed the weight of the lump within five pounds of the correct figure, each making the same guess. The lump measures 7½x5 and weighs 9375 pounds. Miss Ruth Mathews, 1263 Amherst place, a Soldan High School pupil; S. E. Kelly Alton, Ill., a chemical engineering student at Washington University, and C. S. Anderson, a clerk at the American Blower Co., Boatmen's Bank Building, each guessed that the lump weighed 9375 pounds.

John Stano, a Livingston (Ill.) coal miner, estimated the weight as 180 pounds, and a Belleville coal miner, Jerry Collins, said he thought the lump would require 8,000,000 pounds to counterbalance it. Nearly 8000 persons made guesses.

W. K. Kavanaugh, president of the Southern Coal, Coke and Mining Co., had offered a carload of coal for the nearest correct guess, but after a conference with the three winners Wednesday he agreed to give them $100, equivalent to the coal's value, to be divided equally.

The lump was from the Southern company's mine at New Baden, Ill.

Consider the quality—but first consider the standing of our store for value-giving—for dependability— Vandervoort Overcoats

$38.75

—actually save you $5 to $8

THEY are the kind of Overcoats that real men like to wear. Belted Ulsters and Ulsterettes with big warm collars that turn up around your neck and break the Winter winds—silk lined, making them easy to slip on, or lined with double-faced heavy plaid coating materials for warmth.

The variety alone will make choosing much easier, for no matter what size or style you require—it is here.

Overcoats at $28.75

These are broken in assortment of sizes—that is, there are not all sizes in each style, but most men can find a fit and a fashion to please, and the values are certainly worth while.

Overcoats at $19.75

These are medium weight Coats in good styles, but hardly heavy enough to depend on for all Winter. But as every man should have both a heavy and a light Overcoat, they fill a requirement very economically.

Men's Clothing Shop—Second Floor.

Boys' Norfolk Suits $13.50 to $25

THE boy of seven to eighteen years is just as particular about his clothes as are many men. And boys require good clothes to stand the rough usage to which they are subjected.

In style they afford plain wide box or inverted plait models with patch or slash pockets. When it comes to fitting they are every one entirely satisfactory.

Every boy who owns a Mackinaw makes it his most popular garment for outdoor work. It is so handy, and it never gets in his way, nor interferes with his healthy outdoor sports and exercises. Sizes are 8 to 18.

Boys' Blue Serge Suits, Norfolk Style
$10 to $25

The Blue Serge Suit is one of the most serviceable for all general wear that can be found for the boy. These are made in plain or box-plaited style, with slash or tailored pockets. Sizes range from 7 to 18 years.

Boys' Corduroy Suits

—with an extra pair of trousers to go with each Suit, have just arrived. They are Norfolk styles with waistline all-round belts and slash pockets. The knickers are full cut and full lined. Sizes 7 to 15 years. $12.50

Boys' Clothing Shop—Second Floor.

Men's Suits That Are Dependable

$35, $40, $45 and $50

MEN who know clothing can safely buy almost anywhere, but most men have to rely largely upon the dependability of their merchant. Most men know that our clothing is all that we claim it to be—that every Suit will measure up fully to Vandervoort standard of value.

There are conservative styles for the older men who desire them and new waist-seam and form-fitting models for younger men. These are substantially tailored in cheviots, cashmeres and innumerable kinds of good mixtures.

KAROLYI'S TREASURE SEIZED

By the Associated Press. BUDAPEST, Nov. 28.—One hundred million crowns (normally $20,000,000), contained in 21 cases buried deep in the cellar of Count Michael Karolyi's palace, have been discovered and confiscated by the Hungarian police. The treasure consisted of stocks, bonds, silver and gold, representing the former Premier's total fortune. Search by the Communists when they were in power failed to reveal the treasure, although the palace was ransacked several times.

The charm of a lovely skin
may be yours
A clean, healthy skin is usually a lovely skin, but the use of the proper soap is necessary.

Resinol Soap

Is specially cleansing, yet it is mild and soothing because it contains the Resinol property prescribed by physicians for years in the treatment of skin troubles. It gives a rich, refreshing and invigorating lather that you can really feel is cleansing.

RESINOL SOAP is also excellent for the shampoo as it tends to lessen dandruff and make the hair soft and lustrous.

SON OF ANGELES PROPOSES TO CARRY ON REVOLUTION

Announces He Will Work to Establish Democracy in Mexico That Will Respect Obligations.

By the Associated Press
NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Alberto
Angeles, the 22-year-old son of Gen.
Felipe Angeles, who was executed
by a Carranza firing squad at Chihuahua City Tuesday, hopes to take up the work in which his father died
—that of establishing in Mexico "a democracy that will respect its international obligations and its own constitution," he said today. As newly created head of the Angeles family, the youth said he must first look to the financial welfare of his mother, sister and younger brother.
Once he has accomplished this, he said, he would go to Mexico to take up the fight.

"My father's death will solidify
the cause for which he fought," he said. "I can state my conviction that my father's friends will not remain inactive."

Senora Angeles, the General's widow, still is ignorant of her husband's execution. She is critically ill and relatives fear the shock of the news would cause her death.

A telegram to the young man from his father, presumably sent after
Gen. Angeles had been sentenced, reads: "Let the family know that I am serene and contented. I hope that you will be a good man, a patriot and a hard worker. I want you to love your mother, sister and brothers very much."

RECORD OF DONIPHAN FAMILY FOR LONGEVITY REMARKABLE

Three Have Ages Aggregating 252 Years—Couple Have Been Married 63 Years.

DONIPHAN, Mo., Nov. 28.— Regular habits, plenty of wholesome food and a lot of hard work is the secret of the longevity of the members of Linzy Dudley's family near here, one of the most remarkable in this section of the State. They reside three miles southeast of Doniphan and have lived on the same farm for almost three quarters of a century.

The family consists of Dudley, his wife and Mrs. Dudley's sister, Mrs.
Bijah Wright, who are respectively 87, 82 and 83 years old, a total of 252 years. Mr. and Mrs. Dudley have been married 63 years and have had 11 children, six of whom are living.

When Dudley moved to the place
on which he is now living he could shoot squirrels and wild turkeys from the doorway of his kitchen and it was not necessary for him to tramp through the woods getting a mess of meat for a meal. He used a muzzle-loading rifle and killed a lot of game
in sight of his house.

His nearest neighbor was miles away, yet the neighborly spirit was fostered more than in the present day. Dudley was present when the original town of Doniphan was platted by the early county surveyors and he watched them as they located the site of the present courthouse square.

Deeds to College Boys After Ten Years' Trial, Nebraska's Offer.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Here's a chance of a lifetime for 200 big, healthy college boys who want to marry and settle down for life with a sweet country maiden, amid the alfalfa fields of Nebraska.

Col. H. D. Watson, an agricultural commissioner, who hails from Kearney, Neb., arose in the meeting of the American National Association of Commissioners of Agriculture at the Auditorium Hotel and, declaring the announcement he was about to make was in the form of a memorial to Col. Theodore Roosevelt, unfolded his plan.

"I originated the system of growing alfalfa without irrigation," he declared, "but I have a larger and greater plan on foot now. I am raising $2,000,000 to put through a plan. I have of bringing back 200 physically perfect college men to the farms. I want every college boy—or I will modify that a little, I want 200 boys who can stand a physical test as to their perfect manhood—to apply to me at Kearney, Neb., for the opportunity of marrying 200 buxom farm girls and establishing a farm. They will have to work the farm on a co-operative basis for 10 years and if they stick for that length of time, I will give them each a deed to a $25,000 farm in Nebraska."

WOMAN ASLEEP FOR 52 DAYS

Violin Music May Be Tried to Arouse New York Sleeper.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—A new sleeping record was established today by Mrs. Dora Mintz, whose long periods of unconsciousness now total 52 days.

Violin music may be resorted to in an attempt to arouse the sleeping woman. One of the doctors interested in the case said today that, in a similar instance last year, a woman who had been asleep for six weeks had been aroused by a violinist, who played to her for several hours.

WASHING WON'T RID HEAD OF DANDRUFF

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

Told on the 4:22

The train was filling up with women shoppers from the suburbs. Helen Wagner found an empty seat and tried to be comfortable in the stuffy car. Just as the train was pulling out some one sat down with a weary, "Hello, Helen." She looked up and saw her friend Dorothy Thomas.

"Dorothy," she exclaimed, "What are you doing on this early train?"

"I simply had to go home from the office. My head is all stopped up and I know I have a fever. It's another one of my miserable colds," was Dorothy's answer.

"Why in the world do you bother a doctor when you only have a cold," Helen said. "Do as I do and take Weeks' Break-Up-A-Cold Tablets at the very first sniffle and a cold simply can't get a start on you."

"But I am afraid of cold tablets since I took a certain kind," Dorothy replied. "They contained calomel, which is a mercury compound you know. The mercury stayed in my system and I was nearly poisoned."

Helen smiled and took a small box from her bag. "Now, here's a twenty-five cent box of Weeks' Break-Up-A-Cold Tablets. There is no danger of their poisoning you. Not a bit of calomel is in them. A vegetable laxative is used instead. You see Weeks' increase a person's cold resistance—that is why they are so effective. I take them and I haven't had a cold that lasted over night all this winter."

"I certainly shall get a box. Where do you get them?" Dorothy asked.

"Almost every drugist carries them," Helen replied. "But insist on Weeks'. They cost only twenty-five cents a box and they are the best."

PRESIDENT ASKED TO PARDON ST. LOUIS MAN

Max Greenburg, Convicted of Freight Car Robbery, Awaits
Trial on Arson Charge.

It was learned today that Max Greenburg, 30 years old, 1625 Biddle street, who is still under bond on an indictment charging him with being one of the "torches" in the arson plot to burn the Christen Bellows Co. plant, 121 Dock street, in 1915, has applied to President Wilson for an executive pardon from a five years' sentence to a Federal prison for freight car robbery in East St. Louis. The application was submitted to President Wilson last August, but owing to his illness he has been unable to review the case.

Greenburg was convicted in the Federal Court at Danville, Ill., and the sentence was affirmed by the United States Court of Appeals at Chicago. The application for pardon, based on the grounds of innocence, was formally presented to the Department of Justice through the instrumentality of United States Senator Reed at the request of State Senator Michael Kinney. The law requires that an application of this character must be presented by a member of Congress. Greenburg's sentence was stayed pending the outcome of his request for executive intervention and he was permitted to furnish bond.

He was convicted on the testimony of a railroad watchman who had confessed to the police that he, Greenburg and several others had been looting freight cars in the East St. Louis yards. The watchman pleaded guilty and subsequently was paroled. Greenburg was the only one found guilty, the others being discharged.

The case being affirmed by the United States Court of Appeals, the highest tribunal having jurisdiction, Greenburg applied for executive pardon, a step which could be taken only on the grounds of innocence or physical disability.

The complete record of the case, reports from the Judges and District Attorney and a statement by the prosecuting witness, in which the latter exonerated Greenburg from complicity in the alleged theft, were reviewed by the Department of Justice and forwarded with the Attorney-General's recommendation to the President. As is customary in such cases the nature of the recommendation has been disclosed by the Department of Justice.

Judge Evan Evans on Nov. 14 ordered mandate to issue on Dec. 7 committing Greenburg to prison if no favorable action by the President is taken before that date.

Greenburg, with Edward Milner and Michael Connors, was tried in 1915 on a charge of attempted arson in the second degree in the Christen Bellows case. After one juror had stood out for six hours the case was declared a mistrial. The previous jurors in the case had been discharged because one juror had received an offer of money and the other received letters assailing the trial Judge. The case is now pending in the Court of Criminal Correction, where it is set for Dec. 15.

German Ship Believed Lost.
HALIFAX, Nova Scotia, Nov. 28.—The German bark Paul, which was reported in distress off Nova Scotia coast last Saturday, is believed to have been lost with all hands. Several steamers which have searched the vicinity of the last reported position of the vessel have found no trace of her crew.

Clemency for Arkansas Negroes Asked.
BOSTON, Nov. 28.—A resolution adopted at a union Thanksgiving service of negro churches and telegraphed to President Wilson, Attorney-General Palmer, and Governor Brough of Arkansas, "implores clemency for the 11 members of our race sentenced to death for the Elaine riots."

VOTE OF CENSURE ON COAL QUESTION MOVED IN COMMONS

Labor Member Asks for Committee to Investigate Costs and Prices.
By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Nov. 28.—What was regarded as a vote of censure on the policy of the Government in connection with control of the coal output of the United Kingdom was moved in the House of Commons today. The motion, introduced by William Bruce, a Labor member, called for the appointment of a committee to inquire into the cost of production, the output and prices of coal. Behind the resolutions the full strength of the Labor party was marshaled. There was a full attendance of the House.

In presenting the motion Bruce declared the Labor party had been trying to co-operate with the Government in a grave and difficult problem, but that the Government had declined to permit the party's co-operation.

EATING MEAT REGULARLY CLOGS THE KIDNEYS, THEN YOUR BACK HURTS

Flush your Kidneys occasionally with a tablespoonful of Salts to avoid danger.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

TABLE OF GAINS IN 10 YEARS BY 6 INDUSTRIES HERE

Tax Reports Show Steel Led With Increase in Business of 307 Per Cent in 1919 Over 1910.

The commercial growth of St. Louis in the 10-year period between 1910 and 1919 is indicated by figures prepared by the License Collector from tax returns made to that office by six of the leading industries of the city. The comparisons follow:

	1910.	1919.	Per. Inc.
Dry goods	$48,504,620	$80,884,265	67
Wholesale	1,387,877	2,577,004	86
Car companies	10,228,163	23,211,004	128
Shoes	1,000,000	2,000,000	100
Dry goods (retail)	20,236,118	30,198,415	49
Chemicals	12,767,492	20,474,192	59

The 1919 period is that between June 1, 1918, and June 1, 1919.

Collector Chapman said that the figures did not include direct shipments made by St. Louis houses from factories outside the city. Dry goods houses particularly, which have factories in the East, had a greater total business than shown by the figures. He also called attention to the fact that higher prices prevailing at this time contribute somewhat to the greater totals for the current period.

MINERS SAY NATIONALIZATION WILL REDUCE PRICE OF COAL

Belleville Subdistrict Issues Statement Asserting It Is Only Remedy for Conditions.

Nationalization of the coal mines will stop profiteering in coal, reduce the price to the consumer, and give steady work and reasonable wages to the miners, it was said in a statement issued yesterday by the Belleville subdistrict of the United Mine Workers. The statement says it is the only remedy for the conditions which make employment for the miners insecure, and keeps them moving from one part of the country to another.

The coal mines should be "operated to produce coal and not for profit," the statement says, and urges "the elimination of the profit-taker." It adds that the operators have shown they "will charge as much they can make the public pay," and that "prices fixed by Fuel Administrator Garfield were high, and allowed such profits as the profiteers has not heard of before."

CHURCHILL GETS TANK HONORS

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—"It was primarily due to the receptivity, courage and driving force of Winston Spencer Churchill that the general idea to use such an instrument of warfare as the tank was converted into practical shape," was the statement made in the report issued by the committee which investigated the numerous rival claims to credit for inventing the tank. It was said in the report that, as the War Minister is considered a servant of the State, he is not entitled to any award.

The report then deals with a number of men who made valuable contributions toward perfecting the tank, awarding some of them sums of £500 or £1000 each, the principal award, amounting to £14,000, being divided.

To Get Rid of Wrinkles and Bad Complexions

Most cosmetics clog the pores. In cool weather, when one does not perspire freely, this interferes greatly with elimination of waste material, injuring instead of aiding the complexion. Ordinary mercerized wax serves all the purposes of cream, powders and rouges, giving far better results. It actually peels off an offensive skin, at the same time unclogging the pores. Minute particles of dead skin come off day by day, causing not the least discomfort. Gradually the healthy, younger skin beneath peeps out, and in less than a fortnight you have a lovelier complexion than you ever dreamed of acquiring. Mercerized wax, obtainable at any drug store, is spread on slightly like cold cream and washed off mornings. One ounce usually suffices.

For removing wrinkles, without stopping the pores, this creamy stuff, having a never-fading formula: One ounce powdered satolite, dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel; use as a wash lotion. Every line will quickly disappear.

TREATY WITH BULGARIANS SIGNED WITHOUT CEREMONY

Premier Affixes Name Amid Gloom, His Bearing Being Coldly Formal.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Nov. 28.—M. Stambulsky, Premier of Bulgaria, signed the treaty of peace between this country and the allied Powers at Neuilly town hall at 10:40 o'clock yesterday morning.

The simple staging of the ceremony and the clouded skies combined with the inadvertent but complete isolation of Bulgaria's delegate at the peace table, spread a sort of gloom over the proceedings. M. Stambulsky occupied a seat at the extreme corner of the table nearest the outside door with a number of vacant seats between him and the neighboring delegates.

All the other delegates were in their seats when M. Stambulsky was announced at 10:40 o'clock. He saluted with cold formality as he entered and took his seat. Premier Clemenceau, as president of the peace conference, rose immediately and invited him to sign. Two minutes later the first signature had been appended to the treaty of Neuilly. Frank L. Polk, American Undersecretary of State, Henry White, assigned Gen. Tasker H. Bliss signed for the United States. The ceremony was finished at 11:05. M. Stambulsky's bearing throughout the ceremony seemed to reflect consciousness on his part of the distinction made between this event and the preceding ceremonies. It was explained there was no intended slight in the selection of the modest Mayor's office for the ceremony, but that it was thought necessary to give the treaty a different name than the others.

By the conditions of the treaty Bulgaria is called upon to surrender all works of art and valuables taken from allied countries during the war and pay an indemnity of approximately $445,000,000. Bulgaria is deprived of Thrace and also loses Strumitza, a small triangular section of territory, the latter being assigned to Serbia. Compulsory military service in Bulgaria is abolished by the treaty terms, the Bulgarian army being limited to 20,000 men with a gendarmerie, or police force, not exceeding 10,000.

CROWDER'S REPORT TENDS TO DISPROVE ANSELL'S CHARGES

Death Penalties Resulted in 36 Courtmartial Cases From April 6, 1917, to June 30, 1919.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Major-General Enoch Crowder, Judge Advocate-General of the Army, in his annual report, makes no specific reference to the attack upon his administration of that office by former Brigadier-General Samuel T. Ansell, once his assistant, but, in an appendix, gives detailed statistics covering military courtmartial tending to disprove the accusation of severity.

During the last fiscal year 16,847 persons were tried before general courtmartial, and 85 per cent were convicted. Of the charges against officers, more than one-third comprised drunkenness, absence without leave or conduct unbecoming an officer; in the case of enlisted men, one-half the total charges recorded were for desertions, absence without leave, disobedience and sleeping on post.

The report made public for the first time an official summary of the "capital" cases occurring in the army since April 6, 1917, the beginning of the war period.

Death penalties were adjudged in 145 cases from that date to June 30, 1919, and execution was consummated in 35 cases—10 in France and 25 in the United States. Murder was charged in two of these cases, murder and mutiny in 19, assault in 11 and assault and murder in three. "In no case," according to the report, "was a capital sentence for a purely military offense carried into execution."

CONGRESSMEN READY TO FORCE RADICALS TO ATTEND HEARING

Announce They Will Continue Inquiry Despite Hunger and Silence Strike at Ellis Island.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—A crisis is imminent today in the joint hunger and silence strike of the "Ellis Island Soviet."

The radicals, who have been held at the island for some months awaiting deportation, were perturbed when they learned that the House Committee on Immigration would resume its hearings today, "even if it was necessary to carry the Reds into court by force." The radicals refused to appear last week because they were compelled to interview their visitors through a wire mesh. Later they declined to eat, and even the savory turkey dinner yesterday failed to sway them.

The committee planned to take up the cases of the men who had been arrested and ordered deported for sedition or anarchy two years ago, but who still are at large pending the appeal of their cases.

MEN DRILLING SAFE INTERRUPTED

Folkman Enters Grocery in Time to Root Robbers.

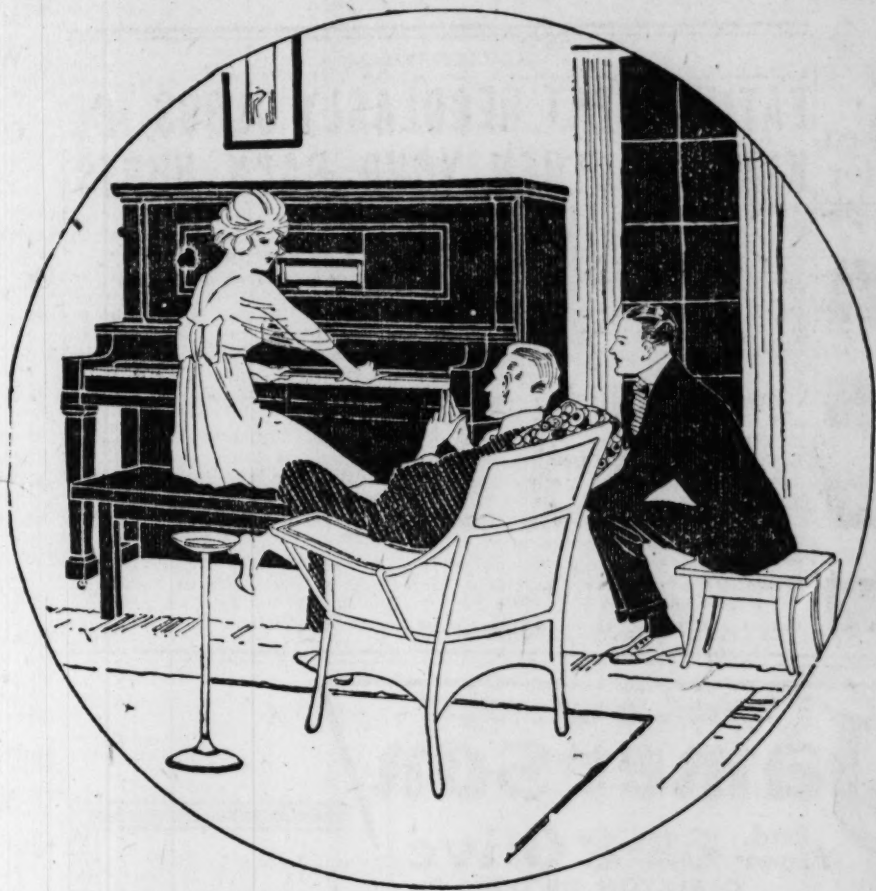

Robbers at work on a strong box containing $2000 in the John Luecke Grocery Co., 4398 Olive street, at 5 a. m. yesterday, were interrupted by arrival of a policeman. They escaped.

The policeman was trying doors on his beat, and as he turned the knob on the grocery door a crowbar and two "pinch" bars propped against the door on the inside fell to the floor with a crash. The policeman rushed in and the robbers fled through a rear door. Marks on the safe showed where they had started to drill a hole for an explosive.

A new city ordinance, adopted Wednesday, virtually prohibited further operation of the buses.

BOLSHEVISTS RECOGNIZE BALTIC REGION STATES

Agree Not to Interfere in Internal Affairs of Their Neighbors.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch. DORPST, Livonia, Nov. 28.—The Soviet has on several occasions announced with great pride that its peace terms did not depend on the war map. Even if the Soviet leaders could be credited with sincerely believing this, it is very unfortunate that the peace negotiations come at a time of the most conspicuous military successes of the Soviet troops. The defeat of Gen. Yudenitch was followed by a hard blow against Admiral Kolchak. Onuk was taken and great booty fell into the hands of the Bolsheviks who announce that Kolchak has been defeated definitely. But most important the Bolsheviks consider their successes military as well as political, against Gen. Denikine. His successes recently were looked upon by them with great anxiety. Now they have not only arrested his advance, but have driven him back at several important points.

Maxim Litvinoff, the Soviet delegate, says that Gen. Denikine was on the verge of a complete breakdown because he was unable to organize a stable government in the occupied part of Russia. "The most important result of two years of tremendous efforts," said M. Litvinoff, "has been the creation of adequate machinery for the civil government. It is by no means perfect but under the circumstances under which it was created it is working marvelously well. The fact that the railways are running, the factories working, the people being fed and clothed, the army supplied and the children cared for and provided with schools can only be explained by the almost legendary work and cohesion of the Soviet Government. But even with all allowances for the efficiency and zeal of the Soviets, there is an element of miracle in it and that is the spirit of the revolution."

"Gen. Denikine still may have a considerable military force but he is without the organized support of the population. He was the main link in the chain encircling Soviet Russia. Now he is himself encircled." In the just concluded conference between the Baltic States and M. Litvinoff the question of the exchange of prisoners was used for an exchange of views as to the possibility of peace. The consensus of opinion in the Baltic States was that peace negotiations should only be started when there is a chance that they will lead to a secure peace. From conversations with delegates it is understood that M. Litvinoff impressed the conference with the eagerness and sincerity of Soviet Russia to conclude a lasting peace with the Baltic States. He proposed immediately to discuss peace, leaving the question of the exchange of prisoners to be decided by the peace treaty.

M. Litvinoff expressed surprise at the invitation to meet jointly the three Baltic States instead of Estonia alone but he agreed to negotiate with them. Most significant were his views on the recognition of the Baltic States. He said that Soviet Russia would not interfere any longer in their internal affairs and insisted that the Soviet Government was strongly upholding the principle of self-determination. It is important that public opinion in the allied countries should realize the real position of the Baltic States towards peace. It must first of all be understood that the Baltic States are ready to conclude peace but not because of the Bolshevik military successes. The declaration of Col. Avaloff-Bermond by the Lithuanian army proves that the Baltic States can absolutely rely on their small but competent military force for defense. Expert opinion is agreed that Estonia is perfectly able to defend herself but political, economic and financial considerations make peace a paramount necessity for the Baltic States. Peace with Russia means security for their independence and the possibility of settling their internal affairs; continuation of the war threatens their economic and financial breakdown with social troubles inevitably following economic misery.

"ATMOSPHERE" OF GREENWICH VILLAGE IS ABOUT EXTINGUISH

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Add Greenwich Village to the spots of "atmosphere" that are no more. Like the Bowery and the old downtown residential district of the Bohemia of the metropolis is about extinct. Unconventional people still reside in the vicinity of Washington Square but those who knew it in the old days call the present residents posers. Struggling young geniuses, living in poverty in cheerless attics or garrets, no more evade instant hand-ladies by the back stairway. They don't because the same attics and studios now lease for anywhere from $1500 to $3500 a year, security demanded. The Bohemian restaurants are commercialized. There is no crud and prices range with eating places in the White Light district. In MacDougal Alley and Washington Square where men and women once sacrificed all bodily comforts for art, limousines and town cars now stand without. Nurses care for children. Fresh paint and modern conveniences are everywhere. Only geniuses who have arrived can now afford a residence in New York Bohemia.

Rupprecht May Be President. By the Associated Press. LONDON, Nov. 28.—Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria has been placed as a candidate for the presidency of Bavaria. In the election to be held in February or March, according to a Berlin dispatch to the Daily Mail.

Holland to Curtail Navy Program.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 28.—Holland, which, among the smaller nations, pursued an ambitious naval program, has, according to the newspaper, determined to curtail. The Telegram says the construction of two new cruisers will be stopped.

TWO MORE HELD AFTER MURDER

Daughter and Granddaughter of Illinois Woman Under No Charge.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DANVILLE, Ill., Nov. 28.—Mrs.
Mary Beuhler, daughter, and Miss Sophia Beuhler, granddaughter of Mrs. Sabina Cummings, who was found murdered in her home at Hoopesville, Nov. 8, by Sophia Beuhler, who stopped on her way home from church, have been arrested and placed in jail here. No formal charge has been placed against them.
Fred Beuhler, husband of Mary and father of Sophia, was arrested two weeks ago, Thursday, and charged with the murder.

Mary Beuhler claimed that her mother kept her business to herself.
She said two cans of money, containing over $7000, was dug up in the chicken yard and the wood yard of the Beuhler place, the woman claimed that she had placed the money there at the direction of her mother, and that it had been buried there since September, 1918. Some of it is declared to be bank notes of a Hoopesville bank, signed by Fred Singleton
as cashier, who, it is stated, did not assume those duties and had no authority to sign bank notes until April of the present year.

CURIOUS MARRIAGE ANNULMENT

French Diplomat Floored by Customs Followed in Mongolia.

PARIS, Nov. 28.—One of the most curious cases of marriage annulment has just emerged from the courts in an action brought by a young French diplomat and an American girl whose name is given as Miss Belley. They met in Mongolia, where a marriage becomes valid only if solemnized before a consular officer or according to the customs of the land. The diplomat neglected both of these formalities and the one based on native customs floored him after he had been happy with his bride for just one day.

In Mongolia, following an ordinary ceremony such as this was,
having been performed by a Belgian Catholic priest, the bride is privileged to decamp on horseback. If the bridegroom wishes to hold her as his own he must pursue and catch her; otherwise the marriage is void.
The only other way of holding her is to buy her, according to the story
the diplomat told the court. Her price is five camels if she is under 35, or 30 camels if she is 40 or a widow.

It is said that hereafter it will be part of the French diplomatic training to teach aspirants for posts the customs of the lands to which they are to be sent.

ANNEX FOR ST. JOHN'S HOSPITAL

An addition to St. John's Hospital, including a nurses' home, will be built on a 200-foot lot just acquired on Audubon avenue, southwest of the present hospital group. St. John's Hospital is on Euclid avenue, between Forest View place and Audubon avenue, near Forest Park. It is conducted by Roman Catholic sisters.
Fifty feet of the strip was bought from William C. Loomis, 4034 Washington avenue, and the remainder
from the Burdett Real Estate Co.
The approximate price was $100 a front foot.

Mother Michael, head of the hospital, is out of town, and no one else was able to give details as to the new building.

"PUSSYFOOT" EYE REMOVED

Dry Leader Rests Well After Operation in London.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—William E.
(Pussyfoot) Johnson, the American prohibition worker whose right eye
was removed last night, spent a comfortable night and with the exception of the effect of the anesthetic administered for the operation, was feeling well this morning.
Surgeons said today that the operation, which was required by an injury to Johnson's eye on Nov. 18
when he was roughly handled by a crowd of students, was a success.

Former Johns Hopkins Group Burns

By the Associated Press.
BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 28.—The group of buildings formerly occupied by Johns Hopkins University and about a score of other structures in the square bounded by Howard, Ross, Monument and Eutaw streets were either destroyed or wrecked by fire early today, entailing a loss roughly estimated at

$1,000,000. The blaze started in Mc-Coy Hall, of the Hopkins group, from an undetermined cause. An explosion followed almost instantly and heavy explosions occurred in the building from time to time.
Nine firemen were injured, but none seriously.

FRANCIS WANTS TO BE SENATOR, FRIEND SAYS

Joplin Man Asserts That Neither
Gov. Gardner Nor Champ
Clark Will Seek Nomination.Haywood Scott of Joplin, former Circuit Judge in Jasper County, who is the leader in a movement out in the State to bring about the nomination of David R. Francis, Ambassador to Russia, for United States Senator on the Democratic ticket, asserted yesterday in St. Louis that he had positive assurance that neither
Gov. Gardner nor Congressman Champ Clark would seek the nomination, and that he knew positively that Francis would accept the nomination if it could be obtained without a primary fight.Scott was in Jefferson City several days discussing the situation with intimate friends of the Governor,
who told him, he said, that the Governor was sincere in his declaration
that he would not be a candidate,
and that the Governor had told them
they were free to support either Francis, Clark or any other man whom it seemed to them to be the best interests of the party and the State to nominate.Francis' only public statement so far on the senatorship has been in a letter to Scott in which he said he did not expect to be a candidate for Senator or for any other office, written more than a month ago. Since that time a number of Francis' friends
have said that there was no question that he would like to be Senator, and that if he could have the nomination without a primary fight he would accept it.Clark has been encouraging talk of himself for the Senate, but has made no public announcement. It virtually is certain that Clark can be renominated and re-elected to Congress from the Ninth District,
and politicians who have known him
many years are practically unanimous in the expression of the opinion that he will not risk defeat in a statewide campaign when he can be returned to Congress with little effort.As to Gardner, there has been a feeling all along that notwithstanding his repeated denials of an intention to be a candidate for the Senate, he would announce a change of mind and seek the office. This opinion is becoming less pronounced, due largely to statements of close friends of the Governor that he would not be a candidate, and to the fact that a number of them are looking about for somebody else to support.R. Perry Spencer, one of the Governor's closest political friends, said
today that he had discussed the Senatorship with Gardner within a week.
Spencer suggesting to the Governor that either the Governor, Francis or Clark should be the nominee without opposition, and the Governor having

Clark should make a strong nominee.

of Father Dunne's Newsboys' Home 3010 Washington avenue, yesterday
sat down with 200 newsboys to Father Dunne's fourteenth Thanksgiving dinner to the newsboys, and were praised in speeches as "five citizens of the world" who had grown up to become defenders of the nation.The occasion was happy and most successful. Twelve turkeys and a great variety of side dishes, including fruits, nuts and other dainties, were disposed of by whetted appetites,
and the time after dining was employed in singing patriotic and sentimental songs. The flag of Ireland was exhibited by Robert Maus, who sang a song about it.The five former newsboys who served in the recent war were Michael Stelbaski, who was wounded 11 times; Marion Leffingwell, who was also wounded; James Duffy, John Sweeney and Albert Witt of the navy convoy service. A prayer was said for three boys formerly of the home
"who lie somewhere in France."

FRENCH STILL HOPEFUL OF U. S. RATIFICATION

Some Treaty Reservations Legitimate, Says Editor of the Matin.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch. PARIS, Nov. 28.—"Throughout the whole of France all eyes remain fixed on Washington," said Stephane Lauzanne, editor of the Matin, in an interview. "There is still hope in French hearts that concessions will be made on each side and a compromise effected on the treaty ratification. No Frenchman can understand why conciliation cannot be reached as certain of the reservations voted upon in the Senate seem to them perfectly legitimate. For instance, the reservation stipulating that American forces must not be used without the authorization of Congress; that goes without saying, and it should be understood that France also would never permit her army to be sent anywhere without the authorization of the French Parliament."

"The reservation that America alone will interpret the Monroe Doctrine looks obvious. There was never a French statesman thinking he has authority on such a matter; still less will there be a Jugo-Slav to intrude in the matter. On all other points Senate Lodge could compromise what he is fearing, that America will be implicated against her will in foreign quarrels; it is only fools or weak people who are implicated against their will—and America is neither weak nor foolish. Why is Senator Lodge insisting that negotiations closed by the allies be reopened? If they are reopened once, who can say that they will not be reopened twice? If the allies should pledge themselves to concur in republican reservations this year, where is the guaranty that there will not be next year in the new Senate a Democratic majority which will ask the allies to concur in Democratic reservations?"

"It is all well enough to kill a negotiator, but at the same time you also kill the negotiations and you kill confidence in international negotiations, and in the permanency of the mutual agreements reached by the negotiations. That is why there must be conciliation between the adversaries and patriots of the Versailles treaty. No doubt the Republican leaders are moved by patriotic considerations and are therefore entitled to all respect. But is not Europe maimed, bled white and bloodless, also entitled to some consideration? Is that consideration being shown when, after a most horrible storm, she touches at a port—reached under the guidance of an American pilot—and is driven away by an American into turbulent waters?"

"There must be a conciliation among the Senators, for America's honor and the world's peace. America will not have performed her full duty to humanity if after having helped us win the war, she does not help us to win peace. The world will never rest and enjoy justice and freedom from oppression if it cannot lean upon the United States where justice and freedom is enjoyed to a greater extent than in any other country on earth."

MOTHER WINS IN FIGHT TO GET CUSTODY OF DAUGHTER

Special to the Post-Dispatch. REPUBLIC, Mo., Nov. 28.—A hard fight for a mother to regain the custody of her child resulted favorably for Mrs. M. Daugherty of this city in the Springfield Circuit Court, when Judge Kirby decreed that her daughter, Gladys Broila, a minor, be turned over to her. The decision came in the habeas corpus proceedings of John McNabb of Republic, who sought to adopt the child.

The girl had been in the care of the McNabb family for more than two years, having been placed there by Mrs. Alice Blood, who was made defendant in the habeas corpus proceedings. McNabb stated that he had taken the child with the understanding with Mrs. Blood that he could adopt her if she was satisfied with her. Mrs. Blood denied on the witness stand that she had made such a promise to McNabb. Mrs. Daugherty just recently remarried and it was then that she took the child to the home of Mrs. Blood. The girl testified that she wanted to go with her mother, but added that she had received excellent treatment while in the McNabb family. The girl is 11 years old.

WARNING AGAINST STOCK FRAUDS

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—Indications that large numbers of Liberty Bond holders are trading their Government securities for stock in fraudulent ventures prompted Secretary Glass to renew his recent warning to bondholders against being persuaded into such exchanges. In a formal statement Secretary Glass asserted that the high rate of return upon some of these stocks was in itself sufficient to arouse suspicion. "Where Liberty Bond holders are urged to give up their securities for stocks of speculative character," he said, "good sense suggests the presumption that the offer is made because the Liberty Bonds are worth decidedly more than the stock. Experience in a great number of cases shows that the stock is worthless, and the bond owner who makes the exchange is simply another victim to the army of sharpers who find easy booty in these days of reckless speculation."

LANE SAYS SELF-SEEKING SIDE OF AMERICANS IS APPEARING

Secretary Says We Do Not Know the Country, Its People and Its Promises. WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Frank M. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, in a Thanksgiving day address here, said:

"We are in a time of depression, of reaction from exaltation of war-time. Now the smaller man who is inside each one of us has come to the fore, the egoistic, self-seeking side, while then and there we drew out the larger, nobler man who always walks with us, but is too seldom challenged to appear."

"This would be a true Thanksgiving day if it could be a day of pledge to the stronger, prouder things in us which we call our Americanism. As Edward Everett Hale used to pray, 'teach us to know that we are sons of the living God,' so I would pray also that we might know that we are sons of a living America. To know that is to know that we can solve our difficulties, answer our problems and go on growing."

"We need to know America, we sometimes lose our faith because we do not know this land, its people, its promise. It is the happiest of all countries on earth; the richest not merely in its ability to produce things, but in its ability to produce women and men of courage, honor and ambition."

"Our people are growing day by day in a distributed wealth such as the world has never seen. One man out of every five in America has an automobile. We have more automobiles than all the rest of the round globe. That speaks a conclusive word as to the spread of our prosperity. We do not till one-quarter of our tillable land. Where else is such promise? In my home university in California there are today 10,000 students, while in my day there we had but 500."

"We love this land because such things are possible to it; and better things will come if we are sober minded and ask ourselves at each

EDMOND GENET'S WAR RECORD ERASED PAST

Daniels Writes to Mother That

Flyer Who Died in France

Atoned for Desertion.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Letters of

Edmond Charles Clinton Genet,

great-grandson of "Citizen" Genet,

first Minister of the French Republic

to the United States, in 1793—letters

from the front where he was fighting

with the Lafayette Escadrille, were published in Scribner's Magazine

more than a year ago, and later

made into a book. Genet was killed in April, 1917, ten days after this country entered the war, and his letters—mainly to his mother—borrowed a keener interest from the fact that, in order to fight against the Hun, he had technically, at least,

deserted from the United States

Navy, in which he had enlisted at the age of 16, and in which he had seen active service at Vera Cruz in 1914. The letters contained frequent allusions to his escapade, though the young man never called it by the harsh name which naval regulations give it.

Recently the record of the youth's achievement in the French Army, a record which included service in the Foreign Legion as well as in the flying army, was forwarded to his mother through Ambassador Jusse-

rand and the efforts of Franklin D.

Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of War.

Secretary Daniels' Letter.

The story was then brought to the attention of Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, who has written

the following letter to Mrs. Genet:

"NAVY DEPARTMENT,

"WASHINGTON, Nov. 13, 1919.

"My dear Mrs. Genet: There has but recently been brought to my attention a story full of interest to me,

a story glorified by the unselfish patriotism and final sacrifice of an American lad.

"Edmond Clinton Genet enlisted

Dec. 6, 1913, at the age of 17, in the United States Navy. On Jan. 8, 1915, having failed to return to his ship at the expiration of an authorized leave of absence, he was in accordance with naval regulations declared a deserter from the navy. Having never returned to naval jurisdiction,

he has not been tried by any court-martial for his offense, and he therefore, remains today in the status of a deserter at large.

"Through the good offices of Colonel Frank Porter, United States

Army, the story of this boy's movements subsequent to his desertion

has become known to me. The telling of that story to you, his mother,

would be but a repetition of a tale known in every one of its glorious details by you and endeared in your heart as a treasure.

"Falling as a youth to appreciate fully the meaning of his enlistment

oath, he went to the assistance of stricken France and offered his services to her in her hour of need.

Many young Americans at this time

were answering the call of freedom and going to serve in the ranks of those forces overseas which were stubbornly and valiantly opposing

the onrush of the German armies.

"On April 6, 1917, our country became an ally, with all the strength of her people and resources, of that wonderful French nation which was bearing the brunt of the attack.

Your boy was now fighting with our

ally, and giving to his own country

KANSAS CITY APPEALS FOR SLACK COAL FROM ARKANSAS

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 23.—A request that the Railroad Administration take some action toward loading and bringing to Kansas City part of the 35,000 tons of slack coal now lying on the ground in Arkansas has been telegraphed to B. F. Bush, Regional Railroad Director at St. Louis, and Hale Holden, Regional Railroad Director at Chicago. One hundred and fifty men are required to load the coal, and they will require protection and places to live, coal operators say. Should the Regional Directors consent to moving the coal from Arkansas, it is believed that Federal troops will be sent to guard the workers.

A wholesale curtailment of essential and nonessential activities in Kansas City, comparable to the situation here a year ago, when public places were closed because of the influenza epidemic, will result from the pre-war production.

Belgian Coal Output Near Normal.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 23.—The coal production in Belgium for the month of October reached 88.6 per cent of the pre-war production.

SPARROWS IN LOUISVILLE SAID TO EQUAL NUMBER OF PEOPLE

By the Associated Press.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 23.—Nov. 21, 45 years ago, the City Council decided to bring the English sparrow to Louisville to rid trees and bushes of a destructive caterpillar. Now, according to the Courier-Journal, Louisville has a sparrow population reckoned equal to the human population.

"Sixty-five years ago," said the Courier-Journal, "the trees of the city were being destroyed by a caterpillar. Something had to be done and several Councilmen communicated with other cities. From Boston came word that England had sent a remedy in a small gray bird and that 50 pairs could be had for $100. The purchase was made after heated discussion. An opinion was expressed then that probably the remedy would be worse than the disease and that the city would have to eventually reckon on saving the municipality from the English bird."

WASHINGTON NOW HAS
'PRINCE OF WALES SET'

Four Girls to Whom Royal Visitor Showed Special Favor Are Its Leaders.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The entertaining of royalty has left capital society with a well-defined "Prince of Wales set," not limited to the youthful belles who danced late during his official visit to Washington and unofficial rest at the White Sulphur, but extending to all the members of official or non-official society who entertained this heir to the throne on earth.

At this time it is difficult to say just who the arbiter of this new and distinguished circle will be, as the Prince was almost unrestricted in his calls as in the selection of his dancing partners, and also as discriminating. In addition to the official calls on the President, Vice President and Secretary of State, the cheerful young monarch-to-be paid the compliment of a personal visit to Cardinal Gibbons, Bishop Harding and Mrs. George Deway, widow of the hero of Manila Bay. The one young girl honored in this fashion was Miss Margaret Simonds, daughter of Mrs. C. Calhoun by a former marriage to the late Andrew Simonds of Charleston, S. C.

Honored Speaker Gillett. The Speaker of the House and Mrs. Gillett were also honored by a call at their home on Eighteenth street, as well as by the acceptance of their invitation to a dance at the Country Club, following the reception at the British Embassy, where, to the disappointment of everyone under 50, there was no dancing.

The Country Club—not the Country Club where President Wilson used to play golf—is, with the exception of the Alibi, the most exclusive club between Boston and Charleston. It has never had a printed constitution, is without by-laws or even a printed list of members. It has no golf links or tennis courts, no trout stream, nothing, in fact, but some 20 acres of ground and a commodious old Southern mansion, where its members can entertain one at a time all the year around and any hour of the day or night.

Mrs. Lansing as Hostess. One feature of this visit to which all the capital gives hearty assent and to which all good Americans point with pride was the unfailing dignity of Mrs. Robert Lansing, who in the illness of Mrs. Marshall filled the role of hostess to the royal party not only in her own home, where the Secretary of State entertained at dinner, but at the dinner given by the Vice President and at the large reception at the Congressional Library, where the Vice President was again the host.

Here everyone was presented by name and everyone shook hands, the reception lasting nearly two hours and including 2500 guests. On this occasion the Prince as well as Lord Grey were "The Guest of Honor" giving an opportunity to scores of Americans, military or civilian, to appear for the first time in their newly received orders of King Leopold II, or of St. Michael and St. George, as the case might be.

As it is a well-known fact that the Prince suggested, not to say requested, that certain fair maidens who won his fancy be invited again and again, it is interesting to note who were the chosen few who went to the White Sulphur, all properly mothered or chaperoned. This is the quartet which is at the head and front of the "Prince of Wales set" among the younger portion of the capital's Vanity Fair.

Girls of Favored Set. Notwithstanding his well-known preference for girls not over five feet two, two of these favored maidens measure several inches more than this approved stature. Miss Jane Story and Miss Margaret Harding, two of the favored four, are tall in any company. Miss Mildred Brownell is by no means short, while the fourth member of the party, Miss Millicent Rogers, is just the prescribed height. All made their debut in Washington last winter except Miss Rogers, who is to be formally presented to society next month.

Miss Brownell is the only daughter of the late Col. Charles S. Brownell, U. S. A., and, through her mother, who was Miss Letitia Scott of Illinois, is a great-niece of former Vice President A. E. Stevenson. Miss Harding is the daughter of William G. P. Harding of the Federal Reserve Board, and Miss Story the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Story Jr. of this city and granddaughter of Gen. John P. Story, U. S. A.

Miss Rogers is the daughter of H. H. Rogers of New York. Other buds of this or last season, eligible for full membership in this circle by reason of special attention from royal visitors are Miss Nancy Lane, the only debutante from the Administration circle; Miss Helen McLanahan, daughter of the late George X. McLanahan; Miss Anna Hamlin, daughter of Charles S. Hamlin of Boston; Miss Louise Hoar, daughter of Mrs. Gillett by a former marriage; Miss Edith Wallach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wallach of Warrenton, Va., and Miss Elizabeth Grinnell, daughter of the late William Morton Grinnell of Washington and New York.

FATHER O'DONNELL ACQUITTED

By the Associated Press. 28.—Father O'Donnell, the Australian chaplain arrested Aug. 18, charged with using traitorous and disloyal language, was acquitted yesterday by the court martial trying him. In the course of the testimony, Father O'Donnell denied all charges that he had used seditious language. He declared he was a nationalist and his endeavors to end the recent rail-had never mentioned the King's way strike. Father O'Donnell testified that he had not referred to the spread of the Sinn Fein movement to Australia.

2 MEN STABBED INTERFERING IN FIGHT BETWEEN MAN AND WOMAN

When Mechanist Used Force Putting Her Out of House.

They Say They Went to Aid Her

Frank Marquardt, 19 years old, a clerk, 3026 North Twenty-first street, and John Grimm, 23, a meat-cutter, 3222 North Twenty-third street, were stabbed, Marquardt seriously, at 8:30 o'clock last night, when they sought to interfere in a fight between George Rudge Sr., 44 years old, a machinist, 2504 Hebert street, and Anna Hobbs, 27, 1315 Franklin avenue, after Rudge said to have ejected the Hobbs woman from his home during a Thanksgiving celebration.

Rudge was arrested. Both injured men were taken to the city hospital.

Marquardt and Grimm told the policemen they were visiting at 2504 Hebert street, when they were attracted downstairs by the screams of the Hobbs woman. They ran to her assistance when, they said, they saw Rudge striking her, on the side-walk. Rudge, they said, stabbed them.

The Hobbs woman told policemen she had been invited to the Rudge home by Louis Rudge of the Franklin avenue address, and while there George Rudge Sr. had taken offense at a remark, ordered her out and backed his orders with physical violence.

New Heavy Taxes for Italians.
Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch. LONDON, Nov. 28.—As a revenue measure a royal decree has been issued by the Italian Government providing for an extraordinary levy on inheritances, an income tax, contributions from war profits, a tax on luxury goods and a new national loan at 5 per cent. The Daily Telegraph correspondence in Milan says the newspapers generally approve it.

EUROPE IN ORGY OF DANCING AND SPENDING

Rich Classes in Paris and London Throw Money Away While Misery Increases.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—Paris is dance mad. London is dance mad. After a flying visit to the latter capital one returns to the former tantalized by the question, "What will become of Europe?" If Paris and London are jazz crazy and spending crazy, if Piccadilly and the Boulevard Montmartre are in dizzy emulation and to whirl away the hours and throw away fat purses, one may fairly picture Berlin, Rome, Bucharest and even Vienna as similarly frenzied. Indeed, travelers coming here from all those capitals bring accounts indicating the picture is not overdrawn.

It is estimated that 200 new dancing halls have been opened in Paris since summer. Within the last week alone three especially gorgeous ones were "dedicated." Before wartime regulations were suspended the devotees danced all the afternoon and well into the evening. Now they can keep on until the small hours—and they do. In London not only the West End, but other parts of the city are in similar development. "Finchley road, Hampstead," says the Daily Express, "is lined with dancing saloons. So is Tottenham. So are Finsbury, Islington, and Putney, and Ealing, and New Cross."

The people pay. What matter if the income tax is due, their bills stacked high in the "art nouveau" writing desk in the drawing room. Let it go! Who cares? Letting the Money Fly. Upon both London and Paris thousands of the war-rich, hundreds of theatrical Duchesses and strangely entitled "Princesses" have descended, accompanied by equally glittering and dubious male companions. The stately, be-mirrored hotels of the West End are their homes in the British metropolis; the more somber, but no less luxurious hostels of the Place Vendôme and Rue de Rivoli their abiding places in Paris. They pay $20 a day for rooms, $10 for luncheon, $3 for tea, $50 for a dinner, $20 for the opera—and then they dance. To keep this pace is the sole present occupation of an army of mysteriously rich and superbly reckless beings who swarm the gay places of both capitals.

Just as before the war, Piccadilly and Regent street are avenues of barbarically gaudy shops, whose windows scream "Forget!" In the Rue de Rivoli, the Rue de la Paix, the Avenue de l'Opera pictures, jewels, rugs, furniture, shout the same message. In Piccadilly one is offered a half pound bunch of grapes for 6 shillings (nominally $1.44). In a Paris restaurant one may pay 10 francs for a dish of raspberries (nominally $2, and some one does). Paris advertises fur coats for 100,000 francs (nominally $20,000). England advertises hats for 500 (nominally $240). Castles and chateaux are on the market. In England a famous old estate was sold the other day to a film concern. In France it would seem from the advertisements half the chateaux of the provinces are for sale. The boulevards will get the money.

Poor's Protest Unavailing. There arises from under this gaudy surface of dance madness and spending madness the sorrowful protest of the middle classes, the bitter discontent of the poor, the passionate or cynical remonstrance of the thinkers. In England the cries of the "new poor"—those hopeless groups whose income never will be larger and whose expenses constantly greater—fill newspaper columns adjoining accounts of the campaign against waste. In France studious people regard with horror figures showing that the Bank of France has made new advances to the state in the sum of 100,000,000 francs (nominally $20,000,000), that there is now $35,000,000,000 francs (nominally $7,000,000,000) of paper money in circulation, that last July (figures only now available) the national debt increased by nearly 3,000,000,000 francs (nominally $600,000,000). Stray indications of the times come to light. Thousands of tenants in France, it is said, have paid no rent since 1914; there are 30,000 too few houses and apartments in Paris, since the deluge of foreigners and provincials came upon the city; there is a minimum need of 10,000 tons a day of coal for the Paris municipality and 7000 in sight at the coast; families with nine or more children, 12,000 such families, are appealing for state aid.

"Ten Months of Tango." "And, as Senator Lucien Cornet wrote in Le Journal, 'what do we do about it? We dance.'"

"Certainly," says the same writer, "we understand that after a terrible crisis there must needs be a period of expensive reaction when one spends with intensity the life so nearly lost. But 10 months of the tango and fox trot! That is an immense deal of reaction!"

How are the statesmen and scholars of Europe to make headway against the vast indifference of the spenders? How convince the sober, frugal millions who constitute the foundations of society that Europe is not really rich, but tragically, superficially spendthrift? How appeal to the generosity of America to help needs that really do exist, when the parasites present a picture of plenty, extravagant plenty? How save a little sanity out of this insanity of the 10 months of the tango?

These are questions that loom up in these weeks when the great task attempted at Paris, the task of "re-making the world," is drawing to a close.

British Gun Pierces Thickest Armor. Special to the Post-Dispatch. LONDON, Nov. 28.—Sir Robert Hadfield announces that the largest caliber of armor-piercing shell has been driven in recent British tests through the thickest of modern armor plate. This feat in gunnery, he says, will render the British big guns, weighing something like 180 tons, unsurpassed in naval engagements in the future.

BlueBird Helps Clean House on Humphrey Street

Mrs. Scribner's home on Humphrey Street is spotless because she and BlueBird cleaned house together this Fall.

She found BlueBird washdays so economical and such fun that she had two or three of them a week during house-cleaning time.

Beside the regular family and household linen, BlueBird washed during this time:

The kitchen rugs; all the blankets and spreads; the window and door draperies for the dining room and library, and all the lace and dimity curtains in the house.

The heaviest and the daintiest things were washed equally clean.

They were washed quickly—a tubful of blankets in twenty-five minutes—and harmlessly.

Not one of the sheerest curtains showed the slightest wear.

Mrs. Scribner will be glad to tell you of her experience with BlueBird.

At 303 N. 7th Street
 the BlueBird Home
 you can see BlueBird at work daily.

If you prefer, we will give you a free demonstration in your own home with your own washing. A small initial payment puts BlueBird into your home. The rest may be paid in convenient monthly sums.

250 Union Electric customers bought 1103 shares of Union Electric 7% preferred stock last week.

2,800 Union Electric customers are now drawing 7% dividends on Union Electric preferred. Their principle is safe. Their dividends are sure. This stock is the safest permanent 7% dividend-payer in St. Louis. Only Union Electric customers can buy it. Only 1200 to 1500 of our 100,000 customers—THOSE WHO APPLY FIRST—will be able to get shares of this new $1,000,000 issue.

The State of Missouri authorized issuance and sale of this stock. The State has appraised the property and found it legitimately capitalized. The State, regulating this business, obligates itself to approve rates which will protect the dividend.

Union Electric has established a Securities Department, as a permanent feature of its business, to maintain an open market for its securities. The Company is not permitted to buy its own stock, but in its Securities Department will offer for sale shares which any of its customer-partners may wish to dispose of. These shares will always be intrinsically worth par, and should sell readily, at any time, at the price you pay for them. While you hold them, each $100 share pays you a cash dividend of $1.75 every three months—$7 a year.

Sales Office: Room 201 Union Electric Building, 12th and Locust Streets. Open from 8 a. m. to 5:15 p. m. every business day. TELEPHONE MAIN 3220 or CENTRAL 3530 and ASK FOR SECURITIES DEPARTMENT. Mail orders filled on receipt of bank draft, certified check, express order or postoffice money order.

Terms: $100 a share for cash; $102 a share on a ten-payment plan. Under this plan you pay $10.20 down and $10.20 a month for nine months, with your electric bill, on each share bought. You draw 5 per cent interest from Union Electric, payable quarterly, on your installment payments. You can withdraw all payments, with interest, any time before final payment is made. You get stock certificate when final payment is made. The Company reserves the right, at its option, to redeem this stock at $105 a share.

One or more shares of this stock would be an ideal Christmas gift or foundation for a college education fund.

COUPLE WEDS AFTER COURTSHIP CARRIED ON ENTIRELY BY MAIL

Arizona Bridegroom Fell in Love With Picture of St. Louisienne Sent Him by Aunt.

Clara Juern, 34 years old, of 3180A California avenue, he said, Clarence Bates, 35 years old, of Phoenix, Ariz., were married Tuesday at 3 p. m., by Justice A. H. Werremeyer, in Clayton, after a six months' courtship which was carried on entirely by mail.

Bates, who is manager of the Goldfield Development Co. of Phoenix, told the story of his courtship to a Post-Dispatch reporter at the Princess Hotel, 18th and Chestnut streets, where he is residing.

"I first heard of my wife last June through my aunt, Mrs. Charles Lea of San Francisco," he said. "Clara's aunt, Mrs. A. Pickett, found out from my aunt where I lived and sent me a photograph of her niece. I fell in love with her from her picture and wrote her an impersonal letter, and asked her to answer it. This started a correspondence.

"I arrived in St. Louis last Friday and immediately went out to her house. When I got there, I asked her if she was disappointed. She said she wasn't, but refused to marry me right away. I called on her every day after that and on each occasion asked her to marry me.

"Tuesday we started on a shopping trip downtown, but I persuaded her to go to Clayton instead and get married."

Mrs. Bates, who was formerly employed by the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co. at Twenty-first and Locust streets, refused to discuss her marriage. They will make their home in Phoenix after Dec. 1.

'DOPE' RING HAS HEADQUARTERS HERE, REVENUE AGENT DECLARES

Man, Wife and Son Arrested on Information Obtained at Springfield, Ill.

The discovery of a "dope" ring, with headquarters in St. Louis and branches in other cities, was announced by Revenue Agent Tully today following the arrest of Thomas Reynolds, 40 years old, his wife, Mrs. Nellie Ritchey Reynolds, 38 years old, and her son, Carl Ritchey, 19, at 1437 Locust street.

The St. Louis arrests were made on information obtained at Springfield, Ill., several days ago, when Robert Reed, a salesman, was taken into custody and a package or morphine, which had been mailed to him from St. Louis, was seized. The package was delivered to Reed by a Revenue agent attired in the uniform of a letter carrier. Reed recently served a year at the Leavenworth Federal prison for violating the Harrison anti-narcotic act.

After learning that Reed had been corresponding with Carl Ritchey, Tully sent a representative to the Reynolds home with marked money and instructions to purchase morphine. After the purchase had been made $5 in marked bills were found in possession of Ritchey and his mother, Tully reported.

MAN ACTS QUEERLY; ARRESTED

Makes Second Visit to Detective's Home Seeking "Mrs. Ellis."

Detective Sergeant Andrew Koehn, 4415 Ashland avenue, yesterday arrested a man giving his name as James Rainwater, 35 years old, "no home," after Rainwater had paid two visits to the Koehn home, claiming to be looking for a "Mrs. Ellis," who, he said, he had been told lived there.

On the first visit Rainwater exhibited a package of butter wrapped in a newspaper when Mrs. Mattie Sinbeller, Koehn's mother-in-law, answered the door. She told him there was no Mrs. Ellis there, and he left. She parted a few minutes later, and was apparently seen by Rainwater leaving.

Five minutes after she had departed Rainwater again rang the bell. Mrs. Koehn answered, and following instructions from her husband, told Rainwater she was "Mrs. Ellis." Rainwater, still carrying the butter, turned and fled. He was caught after a chase of two blocks by Koehn, and held for investigation.

"Being forced to perform outdoor work I was troubled with heat pimples over my hands, face and neck. The pimples were very hard and red and were in great blotches. I became a sufferer of severe itching and loss of sleep. Scratching burst the pimples and a coating of scales came over the irritated places that caused great disfigurement."

"This trouble lasted two months and then I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I found that they relieved me and I used four cakes of Soap with three boxes of Ointment when I was healed." (Signed) Miss Emily Hubeny, Rolling Stone, Minn.

"Home Folks" Know Best

HERE'S A LETTER from "Home folks" telling of an experience with a Charter Oak Stove that had seen service for sixty-four years—and expressing their continued fidelity to this tried and true brand.

MAPLEWOOD, ST. LOUIS COUNTY, MO., 7214 Sarah Street.

CHARTER OAK STOVE & RANGE CO., St. Louis, Mo.

Gentlemen:—My parents bought a Charter Oak Stove in 1852. My mother used it constantly every day until 1909, when it passed into my wife's possession, and she used it without needing any repairs, up to February 23, 1918, sixty-four years' use. In 1918 it was destroyed by a dynamite explosion which wrecked our home. Of course we have remained loyal to the Charter Oak. Yours truly,

Signed, CHAS. A. WILHARDT.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Produce Men Not Profiteers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I quote as follows from letter headed "The Unburied Profiteer," and signed with the initials Z. C., which appeared in the Sunday Post-Dispatch:

"It is a well-known fact that the produce men of the cities buy the farm products in season and leave a large portion of them to rot where they grew. Right now the fields are yellow with the pumpkin and the squash that have been bought and paid for by this same class of human vultures, which, like the other farm stuff, will never find the market."

Sounds reasonable, does it not? All the big, well-known "produce plutes," whose magnificent mansions adorn the West End exclusive millionaire residential district cornering the visible supply of squash and pumpkin mellowing and yellowing in the cornfields at this season, and then leaving them to rot.

Why? you ask. Perhaps so they can gloat in fendish glee over a bleeding and starving world deprived of its pumpkin pie on Thanksgiving day. Oh! squash!

For your information, dear Z. C.: Produce men, as a class, are poor, but honest and well-meaning individuals who work from 12 to 16 hours a day the year round trying to keep you and others like you from going hungry, and also fight the wolf from their own door.

They do not expect to "reap where they have not sown," but they often fail to get what they buy because the acts of God and the United States Railroad Administration spill the beans or upset the apple cart at times.

Possibly the time may come when all these "human vultures" of the produce trade will tire of their shankless and nerve-racking job of keeping the trough full for the rest of the human animals, and then Z. C., the Tenth Ward uplifter and Housewife's League can join forces to sit in at the dirtiest and most disagreeable, the fastest and most fascinating, as well as the greatest gambling game in the world. I wish them all good luck.

Statistics show that over a period of 25 years, 75 per cent of those engaged in this heartless gambling and gouging business fail.

Paying for Service Not Received.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The street car service under a receiver is not improving. It is a known fact that passengers or would-be passengers have to wait at the corner letting car after car go by, because they are so packed that one is lucky to get a hold on a handle and a foot on the step.

The receiver and his cohorts know full well that the customer will have to wait if they want to ride, as it is too far to walk, and they will get the fare anyway, whether the service is good or not.

PASSENGER.

The Burden of the Consumer.

The cartoon in the issue of the 17th, illustrating the burden of the consumer is very expressive of the conditions the consumer has been laboring under for nearly two years. The fellow that pays the excess profits tax does not notice it, as he is allowed about 20 per cent profit not subject to tax. A very great majority of the consumers have only a modest income, and they are the ones that are bearing the burden. It is a rank injustice that such is the case.

Take coal as an illustration, the price of which is now and during 18 months from August, 1917, to January, 1919, was fixed by the Federal Government. It allowed the operators about 1000 per cent profit—about $1.50 a ton at the mine, whereas in the years preceding 1917 some of them got rich with a profit of 10 and 15 cents a ton. Of course, the excess profit tax takes, say 80 per cent of this, but who pays it? The consumer, of course.

Democrats used to raise a howl about the indirect tax on the consumer under the protective tariff of the Republicans, but here in this high coal price fixing by the Democratic Government is an indirect tax on the consumer that "smells to heaven" with its rotten injustice. The common people should raise such a clamor about it that would compel these high and mighty Government price-fixers to consider the fellow down below, that, as the cartoon mentioned so well illustrates, is struggling under a burden that is about to crush him; for it is not the price of coal alone, but of all necessities, that is out of all reason. The action of the Government in fixing the coal prices has been used as an excuse by all profiteers to pile up the price of what they deal in.

Nowhere can the Federal Government do more to reduce the cost of living than by fixing a reasonable profit, where it regulates prices, and thus set an example by practicing what it preaches.

ORDINARY CONSUMER.

THE SUPREME LAW.

The refusal of the leaders of the miners' organization to accept the compromise offered by Fuel Administrator Garfield or to arbitrate their differences with the operators makes the crisis in the coal problem acute.

Theoretically there is no coal strike, the strike order having been rescinded, but actually the miners refuse to return to work until a wage scale satisfactory to them is offered. The operators, having agreed to the wage increase which the Cabinet decided is just to both operators and miners, can offer this increase to the coal miners individually. If it is accepted in substantial numbers, work will be resumed and conditions will steadily improve. If the miners refuse the offer the crisis will reach a stage which will call for quick, effective action on the part of the Government, state or Federal, or both.

The operators should attempt resumption of work, with fair offers of wage increases and betterment of conditions. The failure of all attempts to settle the strike will bring us face to face with the menace of widespread cessation of industry and transportation, with consequent suffering and death from hunger and cold. The very life of the American people is threatened.

Against this terrible menace the Government must act effectively. It must resort to any means to protect the public welfare and save the people from death by cold and starvation.

Under such a menace there is practically no limit to the power of Government, which is the common agency of all the people for their protection from any menace to their safety and welfare. The safety of the people is the supreme law.

What form governmental intervention shall take is the problem of the administration. It should be solved in short order. Gov. Allen of Kansas points the way to state action by declaring that the protection of the people is the supreme law and by calling for volunteers to work the coal mines. He offers the whole power of the State to reopen the mines and insure the safety of those who work them.

Labor organized in nation-wide groups is proving its power in the coal strike, but it is assuming fearful risks in using it without limit to enforce its demands. It is not in defense of the coal operators or in denial of full justice to coal miners that we warn them of the danger of going too far in the exercise of their power to force demands by public suffering.

In refusing to accept the Government's offer to arbitrate they assume a responsibility for which they will have to answer at the bar of public opinion. They may win a temporary victory by pointing the knife at the people's hearts, but it will be a prelude to action to avoid hereafter any possibility of a similar threat.

The Premier of British Columbia announces that the people up there shall decide whether they want prohibition or not. That is an ancient doctrine which, some of our oldest inhabitants may remember, once flourished in the United States.

GEN. ANGELES' DYING PLEA.

Gen. Felipe Angeles was a friend of the United States, but it was not on that account alone that he was regarded in this country more favorably perhaps than any of the Mexican leaders who have risen to prominence during nearly a decade of internal disorder.

He was an author, an able engineer, an accomplished military officer. He was unquestionably a patriot and under present conditions some excuse can be found for his return to his country to stir up further uprisings. Nevertheless, this misguided act disappointed his admirers and proved the greatest blunder of his life.

What Mexico needs above everything else is peace. Unsatisfactory as the present administration may be at home as well as abroad, a man of Gen. Angeles' intelligence and high-mindedness should have set an example in seeking a betterment through constitutional means.

Because his brilliant career and gallant manner of meeting death will long be remembered on both sides of the line, his dying words pleading for a better understanding between Mexico and the United States should have the greater and more permanent force.

Nothing, he said, could be more erroneous than the Mexicans' attitude of suspicion and their belief that Americans planned the conquest of Mexico. "Our great neighboring nation," he assured them, "has only the kindest feeling for us and our welfare." A fitting epitaph may be framed from these utterances.

The direction in which his thought turned in his final moments showed the subject nearest his heart. Shall it be without avail?

Carranza's deficiencies in imagination and in the general qualities of leadership are illustrated in the execution. A pardon for this man would have meant something more than a pardon for the common type of Mexican revolutionist, half bandit and half politician. Instead of putting a premium on insurrection, it would have caught the attention of the masses, drawn the disaffected to the Government, helped to cement differences. But, without the magnanimity of great minds, Carranza, who owed a great debt to the United States, is now a man of no account.

GOMPERS ON LABOR'S RIGHTS.

The New York World recently submitted three questions to Samuel Gompers, asking him to explain (1) why labor objects to compulsory arbitration; (2) what assurance could the public have that labor's demands would be reasonable and just if the right to nation-wide unionization of basic industries and the right to strike were both sanctioned; (3) is there any way of differentiating between the methods of averting a strike in which employers and employees only are interested and a strike in which the public is equally affected?

Mr. Gompers' answers are disappointing. Labor objects to compulsory arbitration, he says, because it means involuntary servitude and is, therefore, unconstitutional. As to the right of a nation-wide organization to suspend a basic industry, there can be no question. Anyhow, no question can be raised from the fact that the public might suffer inconvenience or annoyance in consequence of such a strike. No man should be compelled to work for less than a living wage in order to protect the public in its comforts. Further, the public always sides with the employer against the employee in any controversy where the public's privileges are threatened. Labor is always willing to meet capital half way; it can always be trusted to be fair and reasonable in its demands. The question of differentiating between the methods to be used in averting strikes in basic and nonbasic industries is dismissed altogether, since the right to strike in either case is held inviolable.

Such is labor's attitude, according to Mr. Gompers, but we believe Mr. Gompers is mistaken. It is incredible that labor regards a strike of the coal mining industry just as it regards a strike in a nonessential business. It may be doubted, too, if labor would define a public calamity, such as would follow the suspension of a basic industry, as a mere public "inconvenience or annoyance." When people are thrown out of work for lack of fuel because of a coal strike, is that a mere public "inconvenience or annoyance?" If the public should freeze for lack of coal, would that be a mere "inconvenience or annoyance?" Should the public starve because the railroads could not operate for lack of coal, would labor join with Gompers in describing that condition as a mere "public inconvenience or annoyance?" Mr. Gompers has been guilty of unbecoming flippancy in referring to the consequences of a strike in a basic industry as a mere public "inconvenience or annoyance." It is because such a strike imperils the very life of the public that the public insists upon the exhaustion of every orderly and peaceable means to avert such warfare.

And that includes compulsory arbitration. But here again Mr. Gompers is mistaken. Compulsory arbitration does not deny the right to strike. It only postpones the strike until every other measure has been tried. Instead of the procedure now in vogue, of striking first and arbitrating afterwards, the public believes that arbitration should be first tried, that the strike should be the last resort.

It is evident, too, that Mr. Gompers fails to realize that organized labor, by reason of its growth, has acquired an enormous power and that with that power must come responsibility. The public had to fight organized capital when it became so powerful as to menace the public safety. Today organized labor is approaching that stature and the public must find a way to protect itself from the abuses of such power. The right to strike is not as yet questioned here by any proposed plan of compulsory arbitration, with the exception of the Cummins railroad bill, but such right will be questioned, and will be abolished, as a matter of manifest necessity, if its continuance should prove incompatible with public safety.

THE EIGHT DAIRYMEN.

The eight dairymen who have been fined for having inferior milk in their possession should not be permitted to continue in that business, according to Health Commissioner Starkloff. The Health Commissioner announces his intention to bring proceedings before the Board of Public Service to revoke the dairymen's permits.

It is drastic punishment which Dr. Starkloff proposes, but he directs attention to the fact that those dairymen have been guilty of the same offense before, and have been fined before, according to the chemist's records. The conclusion, then, is that the fine is not a corrective.

The gravity of the offense is well known. Selling inferior milk is worse than mere commercial dishonesty. It is a menace to health. The aversion that goes to such lengths must be reckoned a serious danger.

But before the dairymen are put out of business they will have their day in court. The Board of Public Service has no arbitrary power of business life or death over citizens. The dairymen will be privileged to make their defense. In view of the circumstances, however, no plea of mercy would be competent.

Protection to milk consumers, not leniency to milk dealers, is the issue in this case.

Senator Reed is in New York making private arrangements for ending the war with Germany. The dispatches do not indicate whether Mr. Reed will dispose of this matter in an extemporaneous speech or with a carefully thought out set of resolutions.

DANISH VIEW OF WILSON.

From the Copenhagen Finanstidende.

The world was getting decidedly skeptical about the league of nations, and the wits were making a target of it. Then a brief message flashed over the wires from Washington: "President Wilson is seriously ill," and a hush fell upon the world, with a touch of remorse in it. Are we not all, or nearly all, more or less responsible for the great shock of disappointment that we feel we may have caused the President's nervous breakdown? Have not some of us called him an impractical dreamer and others accused him of breach of faith, because he could not carry his 14 points unscathed through the raging storms of conflicting interests at the peace congress? Have we not stoned him because he was not a god, but just a man? If we have, we should be sorry for it, and we are sorry it, in the mad rush of events, we have failed to allow him the time necessary for the perfect molding of his one overpowering idea, a world of friendly nations, built up after his homeland's pattern as a magnified United States.

BELOVED, I love thee! With such words Have further pleading? Thou canst not hear the beating Of my heart. Take it, and give me in Exchange thy soul! The unexpected movings Of our lives should henceforth be together. Be my wedded wife: put in my arms What Fate decreed mine own—calm days of peace.

And sweetest ecstasies, one heart, one honour. Death through cycles in one day; Though centuries our souls together soar away.

Yet it seems, Beloved, we've loved before: Oh! canst thou not remember—a sort of palace Casement, nine hundred and a thousand years Ago? The little hill of Calvary loomed Three crosses 'gainst the sky. Perhaps we met. Even when the Spirit of God breathed life Into a planet, and the moon first dimmed In cold tranquility the day, the wild stars Later bathed the blacker harmony of night.

Canst thou feel the memoried ache of my Embraces—perhaps some Prince of Egypt? Like those strange men portrayed in histories, Or in the pictures hanging here upon the wall? Thou sat upon a stately bed, thy jewels A-shiver as pearls upon the shallow Reefs beneath the glitter of the rising sun.

We might recall old Socrates, wisdom, Joy and pleasure, aeons drunk with Eastern Passion, pompous temples, doors of beaten gold. Ah! even in that day, thy spirit hungered. But all without the everlasting Bread of Life.

But whether or no, thou didst careen the kings Of distant stars, before this Earth was molded Into Space; or thou wert cherished by A Babylon prince in the derision of A heathen dawn, I know now, that thou art mine!

A TEST OF CHARACTER.

From the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

IT takes a real man to stand adversity. It takes a better one to endure prosperity.

The industrial shores are strewn with the wrecks of individuals who found sailing in calm seas more perilous than sailing in stormy seas—men and women who kept their bearings in safety as long as they were buffeted by the normal adverse condition to which they had been accustomed, but who, suddenly relieved of this pressure, headed straight for the rocks and were lost.

Tribute to the Pawpaw.

Bill Colyar brought us in our annual pawpaw today, and we have tucked it away where it will do us the most good. We know not how it may affect others, but we have managed one way or another to eat at least a pawpaw a year for the past 50 years. And we have noticed this: Every year that we have eaten a pawpaw we have lived until the following summer. It may not work that way with everyone; but certainly the pawpaws have kept us alive from year to year. It is a great fruit, the pawpaw; a kind of atavistic throwback to a custard pie on its mother's side and a bullhead catfish on its father's side, carrying the aroma and consistency of the one and the bones and sins of the father.

But it is the saddest fruit in the world, too. It recalls woods that are fields and streets now, times that are gone now, days that are memories and boys who are dead!

THE MIRROR OF PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

A TEST OF CHARACTER.

From the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The industrial shores are strewn with the wrecks of individuals who found sailing in calm seas more perilous than sailing in stormy seas—men and women who kept their bearings in safety as long as they were buffeted by the normal adverse condition to which they had been accustomed, but who, suddenly relieved of this pressure, headed straight for the rocks and were lost.

Some who gave their employers honest, intelligent service when wages were at pre-war levels have lost their balance under the stress of post-war high wage scales. As long as they worked for $2, $4 or $5 a day they gave adequate return for the contents of their pay envelopes, but at $10 to $15 a day too often they grow careless of their work, think nothing of frequent absences, and their air of indifference breeds discontent and inefficiency among all their shop associates.

Salaried men who gave their employers the best they had in the way of service in the old days of relatively low pay have, in many instances, been stung by the same germ of discontent under the stimulus of higher salaries. They have lost their former pride of work, their former steadiness, their former right point of view. Prosperity turns their heads. Habits of thrift give way to extravagance.

Wall street rocks with speculation. Millions are poured out by the get-rich-quick brethren which in other days would have found their way into legitimate investment. Men who find themselves possessors suddenly of unexpected resources, whether the money belongs to them or not, are carried away with the thought of wealth and the easy life. If the money is theirs, often less it and are then under severe temptation to "borrow" somewhere to recoup. If they "borrow" in the first place, the guilty go into prison retirement when the blow soon falls with plenty of time to think it over.

Prosperity is a dangerous affliction for a weak man. It appeals to all his foolish impulses. It strikes at the weakest spot in his armour of defense. It breeds envy and destroys habits of economy. Instead of satisfying his natural longing for better things it merely sets his desires aflame at so startling a pace that income finds itself displaced in the race. High wages, high salaries and high returns on invested capital are blessings for those who can keep their heads; they are useless or worse than useless to those who cannot.

Never was there more need in America that now for individuals to cling tightly to whatever habits of thrift they are fortunate enough to have acquired. There is plenty of money and it is better distributed than ever before. Extravagance is not only a waste, but it does the further positive damage of undermining the character of those who are guilty of it. It reacts like an overdone dose upon the whole social structure.

It depends on the individual whether in his particular case prosperity is an aid or a hindrance. Easy come, easy go would be a bad national motto unless the nation were bent on suicide.

By HELEN ROWLAND.

Time, Tide and the Modern Woman Wait for No Man

"THIS is the first time you've let me inside the door for a whole week!" complained the Bachelor, with bitter reproach, as the Widow waved him into the little rose-colored den, with its cheerful fire and gay lamps. "I feel like 'Towser,' after he has been shut out the cold all day for chewing up a slipper or stealing the roast!"

"What's I done, anyway?"

The Widow's laugh rippled up like a chime of silver holiday bells. "There, there!" she soothed, compassionately. "It's all over now. I HAVE been rushed!" she admitted, disposing her chiffon and brocade treasures in the big damask chair, with a flutter that sent up a bewildering fragrance of violet sachet, "but isn't that just like a man—to assume that nothing but a belated offense on HIS part could possibly make a woman want a little time to herself!"

"Time!" exclaimed the Bachelor. And he took in the Widow's small and frivolous self with a glance of amused scorn, "what do YOU do with time?"

"Oh, I use it for little odds and ends, like going Christmas shopping, and attending charity board meetings, and committee meetings, and going to lectures and the gym, and studying the social problems, and keeping up with half a dozen clubs. But I suppose," and her violet eyes widened challengingly, "that if I—if you—if we were married?"

"Go right on supposing," urged the Bachelor, complacently, lighting a cigarette. "I love to suppose that. If we were married?"

"You'd expect me to hang around the house, waiting for you all day?" flung the Widow, with prompt defiance, "and to cling around your neck, and tell you how lonesome I was without you, and beg you to hurry back, and quiz you about where you were going, and extract a lot of promises from you, every time you tried to leave the house?"

"Heaven forbid!" exclaimed the Bachelor fervently.

"What?"

"Heaven forbid that I should expect it. There aren't any more nice, little clinging vines, with nothing to do but worry about a lonely fellow like me!" And the Bachelor regarded the upcurling smoke from his cigarette, with a sigh.

"O," agreed the Widow, "the war finished them all off. And in your hearts, you and every other man are secretly glad of it! Time, tide, and the modern woman wait for no man! The sigh that a woman heaves, when she closes the front door behind a man, in these busy, strenuous days, is not half so often a sigh of regret as a sigh of relief!"

"I've noticed that," muttered the Bachelor mournfully, "and, when they murmur sweetly, 'how you go!' the man, 'GO—you must!' They even seem impatient, when you linger to hold their little hands, or take more than 20 minutes to say 'good night!'"

"Good heaven! There's no pleasing a man either way!" and the Widow flung up her hands in a gesture of despair, "when we clung and hung around your necks, and tried to keep you home evenings, and hadn't a thought or an interest in the world outside of you, we bored you to death, and you were continually struggling to escape from us. You even wrote long articles to the papers, urging matrimonial vacations for husbands and wives, and maintaining that home should be made a privilege, not a prison, and that husbands should be allowed at least two nights off a week for their clubs, and that wives should cultivate some interests outside the home. But now that we have had those interests thrust upon us by the war and the economic situation, and everything—now that some of us have to work, and some of us have professions, and some of us have politics, and all of us have clubs, or charities, or careers, or hen parties, you're—you're worried to death!"

"I'm not worried!" protested the Bachelor, "I'm neglected; I'm lonesome! I'm hurt in the region of my anatomy! I have to go around making dates with a girl two weeks ahead, just as though she were a dentist or an oculist or a box at the opera! It takes all the heart and the spontaneity out of a flirtation!"

"NOT to find her sitting around listening for your telephone call, every time you happen to drop in to gladden her sight?" broke in the Widow, "of course it does, you poor, spoiled dear! But, I think of the mental anxiety it saves you, when you want to STOP gladdening her sight or to go home early evenings, or to stay away altogether!"

"Whaddye mean 'mental anxiety'?" grumbled the Bachelor, "I'm tired of being just 'among-those-present' in a girl's life. I want somebody to brighten my life!"

"Well, Bobby," and the Widow brought one small jeweled flat down emphatically on the palm of her other hand, "if it ever comes that I am chosen to 'brighten your life,' you'll have to remember that a woman must have women friends, and at least one evening off a week, for her club!"

"I won't hang around your neck," promised the Bachelor humbly. "And an occasional Saturday afternoon, for a tea, or bridge, or a 'political meeting'?"

"I'll learn to knit!" put in the Bachelor anxiously, "I'll find some interests outside the home!"

"And a latch-key!" finished the Widow positively, "and you must promise never to question me when I come in late from a committee meeting!"

"I promise," agreed the Bachelor, "and never to telephone you during business hours, nor to go through your pockets!"

The Widow tucked her hands gleefully down into two ridiculous little chiffon pockets on her tea-gown.

"We DO have pockets now—as well as latch-keys, don't we?" she laughed happily, "I always said there'd never be any real equality between the sexes until a woman had as many pockets as a man. And, now, we've got more!"

"You've got more of everything!" groaned the Bachelor, "but I'll try to be a sweet, devoted, little husband to you, if—"

"AND, I'll promise to be a good, kind wife to you, Bobby," cooed the Widow joyously, "and take you to the Country Club with me, sometimes, and let you sit and watch me read the newspaper evenings—when I'm not too busy."

"And will you give up your wild ways, and not bring your bachelor friends home, unexpectedly to dinner?" protested the Bachelor.

"I'll do everything," Bobby, promised the Widow gently, "to make myself worthy of a pure, sweet Bachelor. I'll even spend all my spare time at home, and hang around your neck, sometimes—when I feel sure it won't bore you!"

"Then," sighed the Bachelor, leaning back, with a sigh of relief, "I'll consider it."

"I'll consider your proposal," said the Bachelor, "a man must be sure of his heart, before he gives it into a strong woman's keeping in these days," he added gently.

THE old-fashioned marriage was as cheerful, as simple, and as set as the old-fashioned chromo; but today's marriage is as vague, uncertain and complicated as a cubist's purple masterpiece.

The difference between love and infatuation is that one says "Love me—or I suffer!" the other, "Love me—or I'll make YOU suffer."

SYPHATHY is the salt that seasons and refreshes the sordid side of life.

Be in the battle to a finish, but do not keep up a continual fire. The ammunition gives out. Hurry! today's marriage is as vague, uncertain and complicated as a cubist's purple masterpiece.

An ounce of practice is worth a pound of preaching. The law of nature holds that every space must be filled, so no one is indispensable.

A friend is one who, like the world, weeps with one's woes as well as joins in one's joys.

In moderation you make the condition, but in the extreme the condition makes you.

The people who live in the past have a life mortgage on the by-gones for which they pay exorbitant interest.

Kindness is the keynote of life. A pleasure at hand is worth two in the imagination. When a man tries to kill time, time often turns the tables. Too much leisure makes the bread of life unpalatable.

Some French Winter Fashions

Sketched in Paris for the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, Nov. 10. It is very seldom that fine navy serge and white organdie fall to be delightful, and this little frock with its quaint new collar, is no exception to the rule.

To think that it was nearly a year—though it seems scarcely a week—when this self-same maiden used to traverse the Place de la Concorde in uniform. Yesterday I saw her there smiling and "chic" in a smart little frock of navy serge, buttoned, braided and fashionably looped at the side. How the time flies!

The Sandman Story for Tonight

By MRS. F. A. WALKER.

Reddy's Thanksgiving Dinner. Part II.

"What is that you say?" asked Mr. Dog, pulling at his chain and getting as near the fence as he could.

"Now do not jump about so or I shall have to go away," said Mr. Fox looking about in alarm.

"I want to tell you something that I happened to overhear as I was out this morning. I happened to be passing the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fox and heard them planning to come up here when you were chained up and give you a good beating. They hoped to fix you so you cannot bother them at night any more when they come over for a chicken or hen."

"Mr. Fox said he hoped they could finish you, but Mrs. Fox said if they could fix you so you would not be able to run for a while she would be satisfied."

Mr. Dog began to growl and pull hard at his chain again.

"Oh, if I only could get at them!" he said.

"Keep quiet," warned Reddy; there is more to tell. I want to help you, for I should feel sorry, indeed, to see those two big, strong creatures get at you while you are chained."

Mr. Dog stood still, but he could not help whining a little, he was so upset by what Reddy Fox had told him.

"If you will do as I tell you," said Reddy, "I am sure you can get even with Mr. and Mrs. Fox. You keep up barking all day, and that will keep them away while you are chained, and at night!"

"Oh, just wait until tonight!" barked Mr. Dog, jumping again. But Reddy ran, and Mr. Dog, seeing him through the cracks in the fence, stood still again, for he was sure Reddy had more to tell him.

REDDY waited a minute until Mr. Dog was quite calm and then he carefully crept back to the fence. "If you make such a fuss again, I shall have to run away for good," he warned him.

"The best part of my plan I have not told you. I know where Mr. and Mrs. Fox hide when they come over here at night until they are sure it is quite safe for them to come in the barnyard."

Mr. Dog tugged at the chain, and then, remembering Reddy had said, he stood still and waited to hear what he had to tell him.

"They hide," went on Reddy, "in the field down the road back of that old house that has fallen down. There is a pile of old boards and it is under those boards they wait for you to go to sleep."

"All you have to do tonight is to go down there by the road, for they will come over the field and just creep along, close to the wall, and then jump over and pounce right upon them over the boards."

Mr. Dog began to wag his tail and

It may be that the wendiest of these little maidens is struck with wonderment at the beauty of herself, for she is in the most cunning little frock possible—of king's blue bure trimmed with black American cloth and tiny steel beads. Her taller sister is in bure, too, but it is the color of toast, and is trimmed with variegated wool braids. Her other sister is delightfully frocked in dull blue-green velvet, trimmed with colored beads and a collar and inset of white crepe de chine; while little mademoiselle who comes a-visting is all warm and cozy in a coat of emerald green bure collared and cuffed with black American cloth. It was in Rue St. Honore, that there charming little frock were created.

The Curious Quest

By E. Phillips Oppenheim.

CHAPTER XXVI (Continued). "THAT'S just where you're wrong," Bliss assured him. "You leave this matter to me and don't worry. You've found me pretty truthful, haven't you?"

"I'm not denying it," Mr. Morgan admitted.

"Then let me tell you that I wouldn't deceive you in a case like this. You say the money has to be paid by midday tomorrow. Very well. By 11 o'clock or soon after, you shall have it. You may take my word for it."

At precisely 10 past 11 on the following morning, Bliss pushed open the door of the little office and entered. Mrs. Morgan was standing at the window, watching the street. She turned eagerly toward Bliss. He nodded, smiling.

"It's all right," he told her, producing a handful of notes. "I've got it."

She rushed to the other door which led down to the cellar. "Amos!" she called out. "Amos! The young man's here. He's got it!"

Mr. Morgan, fresh from his machine, came up the stairs at a pace which seemed incredible. He wiped his hands upon his apron. His eyes seemed glued on Bliss' face.

"It's all right," Bliss assured him. "I've got the money. Sit down and we'll count it."

Mr. Morgan's under lip suddenly quivered.

"Got it?" he faltered. "You've got the money?" Bliss dangled the roll of notes.

"Of course I've got it," he replied. "Didn't I tell you so?" Come on, sit down, and I'll hand it over."

Mr. Morgan moved toward the desk like a man in a dream. Suddenly he caught his wife's hand. Her arms went round his neck. He turned awkwardly away toward the window, and they stood there together for a moment.

"Well, I'm jiggered!" he said twice slowly.

CHAPTER XVII.

THE labour bureau seemed more hopeless than usual. Enquiries at the more august establishments where Bliss had paid his half guinea were fruitless. He went back to his lodgings, tired out, and for the first time omitted to pay Mrs. Heath her weekly bill. He threw himself upon the bed for a few hours, and then, sometime before dawn, rose again and made his way to Covent Garden. He was stiff and tired and a little sick. Nevertheless, he made his way doggedly enough amongst the market carts, looking out always for a job at loading or unloading. At last it seemed to him that his chance had come. A dray, piled up with flowers and vegetables, was just about to start when the driver, who had been sitting for some minutes with the reins in his hands, beckoned to him.

"Want a job as unloader?" he inquired. "I'm out Balham and Streatham way. It's worth half a crown."

"I'm on," Bliss replied readily. "Shall I climb up behind?"

The former was on the point of assenting when two unsavoury-looking men emerged from a public house a few yards away. One of them, red-faced, truculent, the very type of the loafing bully, shook his fist at the driver.

"Now, then," he shouted, "chuck that! My pal Tim's coming along with you."

"All very well," the carter grumbled, "but I've just engaged another chap. I've waited for your friend Tim long enough."

"My friend Tim," the other replied, "is going to have that job, or I'll make mincemeat of you both."

The driver pointed with his whip to the broken-down, beary-eyed loafer, who was standing on one side, with his hands in his pockets, listening to the conversation.

"Is that your pal?" he asked.

"It is," the red-faced man assented, "and if any one's anything to say against him, they'd better not say it in my presence, that's all. Up you gets on the wagon, Tim!"

"I beg your pardon," Bliss intervened. "I am engaged for this job."

The red-faced man, his mouth open with surprise which amounted to stupefaction, turned around. It took him a moment or two to grasp the situation. As soon as he did, however, he pulled off his coat with an angry roar and threw it towards his friend.

"Now, then," he wound up, after a stream of lurid abuse, "will you 'look it or will you take a hiding?"

"I don't want to fight," Bliss replied, "but this is my job, and unless I am told to go by the man who engaged me, shall stick to it."

The greengrocer maintained a discreet silence. The red-faced man came on. He aimed a blow at Bliss which would have killed him if the latter had not ducked. Then he overbalanced himself, recovered, and fetched Bliss a blow on the chest which nearly carried him off his feet. Bliss, who had very little idea of how to use his fists, struck out blindly, and by chance caught the other man on the cheek. The greengrocer looked around.

"Steady, young 'un," he counseled, "that's Butcher Bill you're up against. He'll kill you if you don't mind! Perhaps you'd better sheer off."

"I shan't," Bliss declared doggedly. "You offered me the job, and I want it."

"It's only half a crown," the driver reminded him, "and you'll get your head broken, and mine too, perhaps."

"Who's going to break it?" Bliss asked.

"I'll — well show you!" the man called Butcher Bill roared.

He advanced more cautiously this time, but with all manner of evil things shining out of his bloody eyes. Bliss clenched his teeth and his fists. A sudden blind rage had seized him. The job was his. No one had any right to interfere, more especially on behalf of such a loafing vagabond. By good luck he escaped his opponent's onslaught. By good luck again, although he struck his assailant but a feeble blow, the latter slipped on a piece of orange peel and fell into the gutter. Bliss, whose head was reeling, sprang at once to the back of the cart.

"Drive off," he begged the man. "I'll take him a minute to get up."

They drove off, and for various reasons Butcher Bill declined to leave his resting place. Bliss worked, unloading vegetables at different fruiterers' shops, until he was almost dead with fatigue. When the wagon was empty it was 9 o'clock in the morning and he was out at Streatham.

"Drive you back if you like," the carter suggested.

Bliss nodded and threw himself down on the dray, and with his head on a pile of empty sacks, he slept till they reached once more the neighborhood of Covent Garden.

"You look about done," the carter remarked, as they pulled up outside a public house. "I'll stand you a pint."

Bliss, following his companion inside, was suddenly giddy. There was some hot coffee being served, which he drank almost feverishly. Soon his blood began to circulate once more. He bade his friend good morning.

"Give you a job any time I drop across you," the latter promised, as he handed him the half-crown. "If you'll take my advice, you'll keep out of Butcher Bill's way, though. He was three-parts drunk this morning, but he can use his fists above a bit, and he's a fair brute. He'd kill a man as soon as look at him. I haven't seen any one stand up to him for Lord knows how long, and you'd have been in all right if you hadn't been a bit dodgy on your feet."

Developments.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—

Industrial unrest in the stock market

at the opening today, with declines reaching over a point on many of the speculative issues. U. S. Rubber lost

1 1/2 points on the first sale at 119,

then fell to 118. Railroad shares were quiet, but depressed by strike possibilities.

Various cross currents continue to influence production and prices in iron and steel," according to the Iron

Age Trade Review. "The direct effects of the steel strike at present

have been minimized, but operating efficiency in many plants has not been restored to the basis prevailing before the various suspensions. In some cases this is due to the reorganization of works' forces which has been found necessary. Blast furnace labor is lacking in some districts and this is preventing the resumption of certain stocks. With demand of large proportions of iron and steel, the

the tonnage already lost, serve to increase the strength of prices and to point the market to constantly higher levels.

The Pennsylvania Railroad has made reservation with various mills

for 180,000 tons of rails for delivery

the first half. The division gave the Carnegie Steel Co. $4,000 tons, the Bethlehem Steel Co. $3,000 tons, the Lackawanna Steel Co. $2,000 tons.

Prices are to be fixed later. At Chicago about 500,000 tons of rail orders

for Western roads await only the affixing of signatures to contracts.

The deadlock in the coal strike and latest developments in the Mexican situation impelled fresh selling at the opening of the Stock Exchange

today. General Motors lost 16 points

over the coal strike and the reaction soon extended to 21 points. Crucible steel lost almost 8 points and Pierce Ar-

General Motors, Studebaker, Bal-

Declines among more representative shares were limited to one or

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

IN BEHALF OF THE MOVIES.

When Willie invents a cup custard
On grandfather's silver head,
Deposits the cat in his sister's new hat
Or saws off the legs of the bed,
Or secretly stuffs the piano
With grasshoppers, crickets and such
It's a pretty safe bet that the dear little pet
Has been to the movies too much.

Whenever the child of your neighbor
Gives forth a terrific "boohoo!"
And you find she is bound to a stake in the ground
By the coils of a clothesline lasso,
It's safe to conjecture that Willie
Has been over on the art
You often have seen when they flash on the screen
The prowess of Fairbanks and Hart.

Yet we, who are old, can remember
The kids of an earlier time,
Who fed on the tales of the wild Western trails
That reeked with all manner of crime;
When rifles rang out in the barnyard,
And the rooster was watchful and spy
Who got to his roost when the volley was loosed
And the death-dealing bullets flew by.

And when the last rough stuff is censored
And movies are gentle and mild,
As reformers could ask who are charged with the task
Of making life fit for the child,
The child will proceed at his leisure
To break all attempts at restraint,
For a kid is a kid, and dear Heaven forbid
That he ever behave like a saint!

"Gets-It" Leaves Toe Smooth as Your Palm. Never Fails.
Ever peel off a banana skin? Well, that's the way "Gets-It" peels off any corn or callus. It's a picnic. Nothing else in the world will do it but "Gets-It."

"3 Drops of 'Gets-It' Good-bye Corns!"
It's because of the new secret principle in the "Gets-It" formula. "Gets-It" does away forever with "contractions," "wraps," "plasters," ointments that rub off and slip into the "quick." "Gets-It" causes pain, it takes but a second or two to use "Gets-It." There's no burning or trouble. It dries, immediately. You put your stocking right back on again. PROGRESS MARKS RULE OF U. S. IN PORTO RICO

Governor Says Island Has Made
Rapid Advance in 20 Years
Under American Flag.

By the Associated Press.
SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Nov. 28.—
Progress has marked the first 20 years of American administration in Porto Rico, in the opinion of Gov.
Arthur Yager. The changes have been so remarkable, he adds, as to be without parallel. These 20 years of American administration ended in April last. In a statement reviewing them, Gov. Yager says:

"These two decades of progress
made by Porto Rico under the American flag, taken all together, constitute a record which I believe cannot be equaled by any people anywhere in the world in the same length of time. It is a record creditable alike to the Porto Ricans themselves and to the great free republic to which they owe allegiance. Much of it is due to the liberality and generous aid of the great American Government and people, but most of the credit is due to the splendid cooperation of the Porto Ricans themselves. Without their co-operation, little of this progress could have been made, but the people of the islands have eagerly availed themselves of every opportunity offered them for improvement. In politics and government, in education, in commerce and industry, in social and moral improvement, they have offered their co-operation and aid to the forces that have made for betterment."

Just 20 years ago—April, 1899—by the ratification of the treaty of Paris between the United States and Spain, Porto Rico became definitely American territory and the "responsibility for the government and progress of the island became definitely ours," the Governor points out.

Education Developed.

Almost every sphere of human life and work, the Governor says, has been completely metamorphosed and probably the most striking evidence of these changes are shown in the public improvements of the island and the development of the system of public education.

"In the 20 years under American administration a public debt has been created, which at the present time is a little more than $10,000,- 000," says the Governor. On the other hand, permanent public improvements have been built which are of lasting benefit to all of the people, both for the present and for the future.

Against the public debt of $10,- 000,000 there have been expenditures for permanent public improvements amounting to $15,626,386, or more than $1.50 in permanent improvements for each $1 of debt. This includes expenditures of $8,490,982 for roads and bridges, $4,218,404 for public buildings and $4,917,000 for an irrigation system. The cost of many minor improvements, including municipal waterworks, sewers and lighting systems, the insular telegraph and other items, aggregating many millions of dollars, are not included in the public debt.

Illiteracy Has Been Reduced.

Educational conditions today,
when compared with 20 years ago,
are characterized as gratifying, although, when compared with what is to be desired, as still depressing.
There has been created in Porto Rico
a modern, democratic school system offering free education to the children of the island. As a result of this system of instruction, the percentage of adult illiteracy has been reduced from 79.9 in 1899 to less than 60 per cent in 1919.

In 1899 there were 21,873 children attending schools, as compared with 160,794 children in 1919-20. The number of teachers has increased from 525 to 2384. There were no public school buildings 20 years ago.
Now there are 525. The expenditure for schools 20 years ago was $288,- 098 and for 1919-20 the school appropriation was $2,467,703.

"Above all, the variety and character of the education, the spirit and quality of the work done in the schools has been broadened, modernized and liberalized in accordance with the standards and ideals of the twentieth century," asserts Gov. Yager.

In 1899 there were 160 miles of completed insular roads; now the island has 712 miles of roads.

Few Old Spanish Practices.

Laws and procedures of the courts
have been so completely changed,
the Governor asserts, as to leave few of the old Spanish practices unaltered. The courts are now administering practically an American system of justice.

The public health service has been built up and health conditions "remarkably improved." A modern system of taxation has been developed. Wages are declared to have been increased and the condition of labor much improved.

"The large floating municipal debt,
which in 1901 amounted to $501,128,
has completely disappeared," says
the Governor, "and now all the municipalities close their financial operations each year with cash surplus on hand, while during the earlier period only debts remained."

"The general life of the people shows even greater evidence of progress during these 20 eventful years.
Commerce and business have been completely revolutionized and immensely increased, social and domestic life improved and the moral standards much elevated. Many of the worst vices, such as gambling
and the use of alcoholic beverages, which in the earlier period were openly practiced and recognized by law, have been prohibited by statutes enacted by the representatives of the people.

Natives in Political Life.

"The immense increase in industrial business can in part be indicated by the increase in foreign business, which has risen from $17,502,- 103 in 1901 to $141,896,400 in 1919.

"As to political progress, if we put aside the brief period of autonomist government, which never got into thorough operation, so that we will never know how it might have worked, there was under Spanish regime no democratic government and no local self-government. Now the Government of the island is both entirely democratic and in the main locally controlled and responsible to the people. And this is true not only of the political institutions, such as the Legislature and the municipal councils and other officials elected by the people, but practically the entire personnel who do the work of the Government are native sons and daughters of the island. Out of 5953 positions in the Government service, only 208 are held by those who are not natives of the country, and of these 208 there are 148 teaching positions, filled mostly by teachers of English and technical subjects. In 1919 there were 769 non-natives in the Government service.

If You Suffer the Tor- tures of Burning Itching Skin Diseases

It's Possible You Can Secure Permanent Relief by the Use of This Prescription Treatment

When your skin itches, you just must scratch and rub, although you well know that the irritation caused will itch all the more and burn like coals of fire. In addition to the suffering and torture, the glands of the inflamed skin will throw off a watery pus that makes the trouble all the more unbearable.
Mucus and greasy external applications may stop the itching for a while, but as the diseased condition of the skin is usually caused by an impure state of your blood, a real purifier is necessary, for no real relief can be expected until the blood is thoroughly purified—the poisons,
that are causing the unbearable skin disease, eliminated entirely.

As a red blood purifier, Plough's Prescription C-2223 has been used for years and years with great success in the treatment of these conditions of the skin due to an impure state of the blood. This concentrated liquid treatment contains certain medicinal ingredients well known to the medical profession, which eliminate the poisons causing the trouble, purify the blood and make the skin clear and healthy.

In taking Plough's Prescription C-2223,
it is very necessary that the liver be active. A very mild cathartic and liver stimulant is prepared especially for use in connection with the liquid prescription treatment—2223 Liver Pills. Three pills a week are all that will be found necessary to keep the liver and bowels in a healthy condition, thereby assisting the treatment in throwing off the poisons.

Plough's Prescription C-2223 can be found at all good drug stores at $1.50 a bottle; the Pills, 25c a package; or the 2223 Laboratory, Memphis, Tenn., will send both postal on receipt of $1.75.

NUCOA

What it is -
How made -
Why white -

NUCOA is table butter. It displaces cow butter—and does it without a single apology. If it were less buttery than that which you have been brought up to call butter, it would fail utterly. It is a great big success. Our five churning plants have a daily capacity of 300,000 pounds. Just think of it! Enough butter to spread nine million slices of bread—liberally. Never let anyone tell you that Nucoa isn't butter. What else could it be when it butters all this bread every day?

Let us tell you how it is made. We import the meat of the coconut from Ceylon, Java and the Philippine Islands.
This is crushed and refined into a cream white butter. It could not be finer. It does not contain a trace of water.
It is just pure coconut butter. Highly refined, rich, peanut oil is added. This is just like olive oil in color and texture.
The richness and mellowness of peanut oil makes it very valuable. These two products are churned with cultured milk that has first been pasteurized. When it leaves the churn it is worked and salted the same as creamery butter.
The one secret is efficiency and care.

Nucoa is white because the Dairy Interests succeeded in passing a law that took from us the use of the very color that all cow butter contains. We supply this color free.
Process of coloring simple and easy. It takes but a minute.
Directions surround each print. Branded oleomargarine to satisfy an old Federal Law passed before Nucoa was made. Work with your Congressmen against these discriminations.

MANY HOGS STOLEN FROM CARS

Four Negroes Held on East Side and Others Are Sought for Thefts.
Wholesale thefts of hogs from cars in transit between the stations and points in the vicinity are attributed to 10 negroes, four of whom were arrested last night. The prisoners are Ernest Jones and Claude Smith of 2317 Lucas avenue, St. Louis; Houston Elliott of Madison, Ill.; and C. A. Vincent of Venice, Ill. They were taken to the Belleville Jail. The others are being sought.
The thefts have been going on almost daily for the last two months, according to railroad detectives, from two to six hogs being stolen at a time. One or more of the negroes would board a train at Brooklyn, a negro settlement, break the seal of a car and throw the hogs off at points where other negroes were waiting. The hogs would be taken into the willows on the river front at Newport, west of Madison, killed and dressed immediately and then peddled to negroes. In some cases the negroes sold meat to butchers.

"This number is very gratifying when the showing of other cities is considered," the official announcement from campaign headquarters says.

Princess Mary Makes Speech.
By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Nov. 23.—Princess Mary made her debut as a speaker at a public function last night, the occasion being a farewell rally of the Women's Land Army, which is being disbanded. The ceremony was a picturesque one, in the old Drapers' Hall. After making an effective speech, Princess Mary presented Something "different" in Desserts?

Then by all means, not new desserts, but old desserts made new. The sauce is the secret. And here is the one that's warranted by caterers and chefs to disguise the simplest of home desserts beyond recognition—to make them frivolous and gay, deliciously "different."
MARSHMALLOW SAUCE: Thin, three tablespoons of sugar, one of water. Add two tablespoons of white syrup and stir in thoroughly. Serve with gelatin desserts, puddings, cooked fruit, tapioca—with any dessert that needs a sauce. Better than Whipped Cream, costs less than plain cream and sugar. "WONDERFUL!" you'll say.

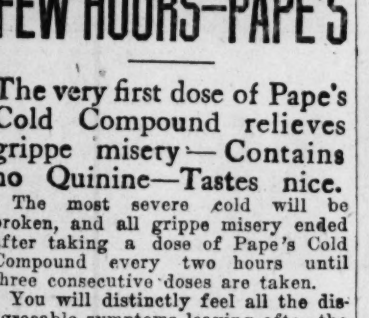

HIP-O-LITE

a ready to use Marshmallow Creme
To really enjoy the sugar shortage, all you need is a jar of HIP-O-LITE. Your grocer has it.

Constipation
Can be permanently overcome by gently stimulating and schooling the liver and bowels to proper function. Discontinue use of laxatives and cathartics and purchase a 30c vial from your nearest druggist of the greatest and mildest cathartic discovery of the age.

MUNYON'S Paw Paw Pills
The most effective and reliable of all laxatives. Breaks cold in few hours—Pape's Cold Compound.

WIFE'S WATCH ON HUSBAND RESULTS IN MAN BEING SHOT

Innocent Passerby Wounded Due to Effort to Learn if Saloon Keeper Has an "Affinity."

"AFFINITY" HAD SENT HER CARBOLIC ACID

Husband and a Woman, Followed by Detectives in Auto, Pick Up Policeman and Shooting Follows.

The efforts of Mrs. Marian Cody of 4963 Page boulevard to learn if her husband, Joseph Cody, a saloon keeper at Grand and Easton avenues, had an "affinity," led to an exciting automobile chase at 2:45 a. m. yesterday, in which private detectives were pursued by Cody, Mrs. Emily La Rue of 1381 North Vandeventer avenue, and Probationary Patrolman Joseph Hester, and to the serious wounding of an innocent passerby, Samuel Scott of 4217 John avenue, a Union Station baggage-man.

Scott was walking at Twentieth and Olive streets, on his way to work, when a bullet fired from the Cody machine struck him in the right cheek. He is at the city hospital.

Fired Six Times. Policeman Hester, in his report, said he fired six times at the machine containing the private detectives and that the wounding of Scott was accidental.

Cody had been to a dance at Hibernian Hall, 3619 Finney avenue, and was leaving there in his automobile, accompanied by Mrs. La Rue when he noticed another machine following him. According to his statement to the police later, he drove to Grand and Franklin avenues, where he picked up Policeman Hester and told him of the machine following him, saying he believed there were highwaymen in it.

The other machine passed Cody's while he was talking to the policeman. Hester got into Cody's car and they trailed the other automobile, which turned east on Olive street. According to Hester's report he opened fire on the car ahead as it sped down Olive street, but he lost track of it near Twentieth street.

Pursued Car Wrecked. About 3 a. m. the pursued car was wrecked when it ran into a curb at Tenth and Pine streets. All of its occupants were taken to police headquarters. They said they were August Schneider, 2324 South Jefferson avenue, head of the Schneider Detective Bureau; his brother, Edgar Schneider, of 2636 Arsenal street; Arthur S. Schneider, son of Edgar, and Arthur's wife, Mrs. Estelle Schneider.

They said they were employed last Monday by Mrs. Cody, who gave them $185 to obtain evidence that her husband had an "affinity." The shooting from Cody's car along Olive street had caused someone to telephone to police headquarters and Night Chief Kirk had gone out to investigate. He arrested Cody and Mrs. La Rue at Grand avenue and Olive street when they returned there after the chase. The arrest was made after Policeman Hester, who was still in the machine, had stopped to tell Kirk the cause of the shooting.

After being questioned at Police Headquarters the members of the Schneider party were released. Cody and Mrs. La Rue were released on common law bonds to answer any charge that might be made against them in connection with the wounding of Scott.

Mrs. Cody, at her home, told detectives that about two months ago she received a letter signed "Affinity," accompanied by a small bottle of carbolic acid, which the writer of the letter advised her to take. Her subsequent investigations, she said, led to her decision to employ private detectives to watch her husband.

Mrs. La Rue said she and another woman went to the dance at Hibernian Hall and met Cody there, and she accepted his offer to take her home in his machine.

ILLINOIS KNOWS NO "VAGRANCY"

Belleville Judge Says Laws of State Define No Such Crime. Asserting that there is no such crime as "vagrancy" in the Illinois statutes, Circuit Judge Crow, at Belleville, granted a writ of habeas corpus which released from the St. Clair county jail Charles Jackson of East St. Louis, sentenced to six months in jail.

The writ committing Jackson, issued by Justice Clark, stated the accused had been found guilty of vagrancy. Judge Crow held that while "being a common vagabond" was an offense, not all men who did not work could be convicted of vagrancy.

FUEL BODY URGES DRASTIC REDUCTION IN COAL USED HE

Chamber of Commerce Municipal Officers Ask to Aid in Accomplishing Radical Conservation.

PRIORITY LIST ISSUED DOMESTIC USERS LA

Shorter Hours of Heating and Lessened Interior, Exterior and Display Illumination Appealed For.

After deliberating for several hours yesterday the Regional Committee issued a statement "the public" appealing for conservation of coal and intimating that certain classes of consumers were to be deprived of coal, but no order restraining distribution was made. Chairman Greenlaw was asked today to interpret the statement, or to say who was expected to get coal and who is not. Referring to a part of the statement he hinted at applying restrictions on nonessential consumers of fuel, direct or indirect, he was asked if it meant that light, heat or power would no longer be supplied to theaters, dance halls or the like. He refused to answer.

"We are appealing to the public to stand the way it is. We want people to help us save coal," said Chairman Greenlaw. He was asked how the public could co-operate unless it knew what the committee wanted. "Well, I don't want to be too definite about it. Just wait a day or two," Greenlaw said. "We will confer with city officials and the Chamber of Commerce, and let them work out the details of just how this conservation will work."

The Coal Committee has the power to order coal withheld or piled, as it sees fit. The only specific statement was obtained from Greenlaw that theaters or moving picture houses will not be permitted to use any more coal, but may use what they have on hand. It was pointed out to him that some theaters use coal, but buy their heat directly from public service stations, and was asked if this supply would be stopped. He declined to say.

The committee's statement "the public," issued after yesterday's meeting, follows: "To the Public: "To the end that the necessary fuel requirements of the transportation companies, together with those of such public utilities as are necessary to the health and life of the people, including the requirements of public buildings, hospitals, asylums, etc., be absolutely safeguarded, regardless of increased demands that may be occasioned by extraordinarily inclement weather and consequent temporary interference with movement of coal now coming to the southwestern regional district from mines now in operation, the fuel-consuming public are hereby requested to make such immediate steps in the reduction of their individual fuel requirements as will tend to make absolutely safe during the period of reduced production essential fuel requirements of the district, such restriction to be applied by all consumers of fuel, regardless of whether the fuel is used directly in furnaces, boilers or other heating apparatus or indirectly through medium of light, heat and power purchased from public utilities, including vendors of coal for heating purposes."

Municipal Action Sought. Municipal officials, Chamber of Commerce, associations of retail merchants and other organizations throughout the district are hereby requested to immediately take necessary action through the shortening of lighting and lighting hours, the reduction of unnecessary light, including interior and exterior illumination and street sign regulation of building temperatures, etc., together with policing of all coal consumption within the following classifications which will reduce the consumption of coal to a minimum:

"1. Railroads and steamships.
"2. Army and navy, and departments of Federal Government.
"3. State, county and municipal departments and institutions.
"4. Public utilities.
"5. Retail dealers, including domestic consumers of buildings and stores, and working hours being classed as domestic consumers."
